Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday approved a two-step increase in the minimum wage to $2 an hour, rejecting a proposal to make the jump immediately and extend coverage to 5.5 million additional workers.

The bill passed by the House would raise the present $1.60 minimum to $1.80 within two months after enactment, and to $2 a year later. Lower rates would be set for teen-agers and farm workers.

The measure goes to the Senate where a bill raising the minimum to $2.20 an hour this year and expanding the coverage is awaiting final action by the Senate Labor Committee.

The House vote was a victory for the administration and a setback for the Democratic leadership, which had made the $2 minimum now, and the extension of coverage to government employees and household domestics a key part of its legislative program.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., who offered the amendment to stretch out the $2 rate until next year, said an immediate boost, amounting to a 25 per cent increase, would "completely gut" the 5.5 per cent guideline for pay raises set by the Pay Board.

He called his amendment, which was adopted 216 to 187, "the small business amendment." Most small retail and service establishments would be hard hit by a raise to $2 at this time, he said.

Irish Referendum

DUBLIN (AP) — Ireland Thursday voted overwhelmingly in favor of joining the European Common Market, ending 30 years of isolation and handing a massive rebuff to political leaders of violent nationalism.

The voters were asked to give Prime Minister Jack Lynch constitutional power to take the nation into Europe. They did so with a mighty "yes."

With 35 of the 42 electoral districts counted, the vote was 688,987 in favor and 177,774 against. The "yes" vote was ahead in all remaining districts.

Lynch's Fianna Fail party, the soldiers of destiny, proclaimed "a fantastic victory" and aimed at 2 to 1 in favor but it looks closer to 4 to 1.

The result gives the government power to amend Ireland's 1957 constitution so that laws of the European community will have full force here.

A victory for entry had been expected but not on this scale. It represented a revolutionary turn away from the isolationism which dominated Irish political thought through most of the 50 years since the break with Britain.

The vote also represents a big boost for pro-market forces in Denmark and Norway, two more applicants who have yet to make a referendum decision on community membership.

Britain, the fourth applicant, decides in Parliament and not by national vote.

The decisive factor in the big "yes" vote was the belief of Irish farmers that they can only benefit from access to a huge market hungry for their beef.

The government earlier indicated it would interpret a favorable vote as a sign the people are ready for a crack down on the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Through its political front, Sinn Fein, the IRA campaigned against joining Europe, contending that community membership would extend partition of Ireland for all time and wreck all claim to national sovereignty. The IRA speaks union with British-ruled Northern Ireland, by force if necessary.

Vietnam Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The secret Nixon administration Vietnam policy papers that Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, has been blocked for more than two weeks from putting on the public record were finally inserted in the Congressional Record Thursday by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums.

"Gravel gave me the papers, asked me to put them in the record, and I agreed to do it because I think the American people have the right to know the basis on which the President's reckless decisions are being made," Dellums, D-Calif., said.

He inserted in the record without objections from any House member 29 pages of the memorandum, sometimes referred to as the Kissinger papers for President Nixon's National Security adviser Henry Kissinger, on opposing Pentagon and civilian agencies' recommendations on Vietnam war policy in 1969.

All of the memorandum appearing in the Congressional Record had already been disclosed in stories in the Washington Post and the news media generally across the country.

China-Vietnam-U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China declared Thursday the new U.S. actions in Vietnam should be condemned, but it ruled out any U.N. role in the situation.

Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua criticized the letter U.S. Ambassador George Bush sent to the Security Council Tuesday night, notifying it of the measures. The letter "attempted to impose on the United Nations such ineffectual measures as the flagrant blockade of the territorial sea and ports of Vietnam in violation of the U.N. charter and the principles guiding international relations," Hua said.

"That must be condemned," he added.

"It must be pointed out that the Vietnam question has nothing to do with the United Nations in the first place," Hua said in a letter to Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and Bush. "The United Nations has never meddled in the Vietnam question since the Geneva conference was held in 1954."

That was a new blow to Waldheim's efforts to involve the Security Council in obtaining a cease-fire and a settlement in Vietnam.

He consulted with all 15 council members Wednesday. A diplomatic notice said the five big power permanent members did not favor a council meeting now.

Bush, president of the council for May, met with Waldheim on Thursday but said he had "no judgment" on whether there would be a meeting.

Mines Activate Without Incident
Enemy Pressures An Loc

SAIGON (AP) — The United States on Friday unleashed the war's biggest concentration of B52 bombers at An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, in efforts to break the five-week-old North Vietnamese siege of the provincial capital. Field reports said more than 400 North and South Vietnamese soldiers were killed in fighting during the past two days.

Nearly 70 B52s dropped over 1,700 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations along a line west-northwest of An Loc to east-northeast of the city straddling Highway 13.

The provincial capital is already 85 per cent destroyed. President Nguyen Van Thieu has ordered the city held at all costs.

Meanwhile, American-laid mines armed themselves Thursday night in harbors of North Vietnam, bringing into force the latest efforts to choke off the supply of enemy war goods.

Up to nightfall, hours after the mines activated at the entrances to seven port cities, there were no reports of incidents involving shipping.

The Pentagon announced that five ships, including four flying the Soviet flag, left Haiphong harbor before activation, leaving 31 foreign vessels.

With martial law in effect in Saigon, the government ordered an earlier curfew. Effective Saturday, it will be 10 p.m. The curfew had been 1 a.m. and last month was cut back to 11 p.m. The government also ordered the closing down of night clubs, bars and race tracks.

Despite the pounding by the B52s, North Vietnamese troops heavily assaulted An Loc on Friday morning for the second consecutive day.

The enemy resumed heavy shelling of the town just before 9 a.m. Saigon time, and launched ground assaults from all sides.

The North Vietnamese were said to control sections of the western and northern perimeters in a rapidly changing

Rising Tide Of Protest
Spreads Across Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Antiwar demonstrators forced the United Nations to close its New York headquarters to tourists and isolated the public from the historic frigate Constitution in Boston harbor Thursday, in a third day of intense but scattered protest against President Nixon's new Vietnam policy.

More than 500 arrests were logged during the day, most of them peaceful. In some cases, demonstrators were carried or dragged away, however.

Eighteen demonstrators were arrested at New Brunswick, N.J., during a vain attempt to block local trains on the main line of the Penn Central Railroad. But five Southern Pacific trains were rerouted at Davis, Calif., after University of California students there spent most of the night sitting on the tracks. Other groups of protesters tied up auto traffic at Santa Barbara, Calif., and on Chicago's South Lake Shore drive, among a number of target areas.

In New England, the president of Amherst College, his wife, and the wife of the president of Smith College were arrested after they joined students in blocking traffic at Westover Air Force Base at Chicopee, Mass.

Three days of window-smashing protest by University of California students at Berkeley left small merchants with an estimated loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars. More than 100 firms reported damage.

Seventeen students and faculty members from Columbia University and Brooklyn Community College chained themselves to seats in the visitors' gallery of the U.N. Security Council. They demanded to see U.S. Ambassador George Bush, currently president of the council.

A U.N. spokesman, William Powell, said U.N. headquarters would be closed to the public for the remainder of the day and Friday because of "the rising tide of demonstrations taking place."

"Let there be no mistake about it; this is not a peaceful demonstration," Powell told newsmen. He said a U.N. painter trying to help the guards was bitten so badly on the arm by a protester that he required medical treatment.

Nixon Summit In Moscow
Still In Diplomatic Limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, smiling and injecting the word "friendship" into casual conversation, met Thursday with a Soviet trade minister who later said: "We never had any doubts" about the May 22 Moscow summit.

The comment by Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev came after a surprise White House meeting, described officially as a "courtesy call" by the minister and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

However, after walking with Nixon to a helicopter, which flew the President to his Camp David retreat, presidential adviser Henry Kissinger was asked by newsmen whether the summit was still on. "We just don't know," Kissinger replied.

The session, which opened in a display of cordiality, came soon after the Soviet government denounced Nixon's mining of North Vietnamese ports.

The Moscow statement was more reserved than some U.S.

officials had expected and made no reference to the talks between Nixon and Soviet leaders scheduled to begin in 11 days.

This could be an indication, the officials said, that Kremlin leaders were still pondering steps to counter Nixon's stern moves intended to choke off the flow of Hanoi's war supplies.

The White House and State Department had no official comment on the Soviet statement but said they were studying it.

Asked whether Russian naval ships are en route to the Tonkin gulf area, Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedman said: "I have nothing to report Thursday morning on either Chinese or Soviet fleet movements."

On Wednesday Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said only that there was no evidence of Soviet naval movements in response to the mines.

So far, Friedman reported, there were "no mine-sweeping operations going on" in the entrances to the seven North Vietnamese ports.

The tone of the first high-level Soviet reaction to Nixon's Monday night announcement and the amiable and cordial public exchanges between the President and his Communist callers were viewed as indications that the long-planned Moscow summit talks were still on.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler refused to say whether the summit was discussed during the 50-minute meeting between Nixon, Patolichev and Dobrynin.

Afterward, NBC radio news reported that the Soviet trade minister was asked by a newsmen whether the summit was still on.

"We never had any doubts about it," the Russian was quoted as saying. "I don't know why this questions. Have you any doubts?"

The minister also told the re-

Appeals Court Returns
'Chicago 7' Sentences

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal appeals court reversed Thursday contempt sentences imposed by a judge on eight defendants and two defense lawyers during the controversial Chicago 7 conspiracy trial.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the charges returned to the U.S. District Court for trial. The court cited a 1971 Supreme Court decision which held that a trial judge should disqualify himself from contempt proceedings if the citations are not made until the end of the trial.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman sentenced Bobby G. Seale, chairman of the Black Panther Party, to four years on 18 charges of contempt after he severed Seale's case and declared a mistrial six weeks after the trial began in September 1969. Hoffman waited until Feb. 14, 1970, the day the jury adjourned to consider a verdict, before he cited the other seven defendants and two lawyers for contempt.

Five defendants were convicted Feb. 18, 1970 of crossing state lines to incite a riot at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago. They were acquitted of all charges and the government did not retry Seale on the conspiracy charges. The appeal of the riot convictions still is pending before the 7th Circuit.

Leonard I. Weinglass of Newark, N.J., one of the defense lawyers cited for contempt, said in California he was disappointed by the appeals court ruling. The defendants hoped the appeals court would overturn the sentences and not order a trial.

"It was a shame the court didn't go all the way," said Weinglass. "Now to face the additional prospect of having someone like (Richard) Kleindienst (acting attorney general) send us back for more can't make us feel entirely grateful at this point."

A spokesman for the Justice Department said in Washington it was not decided whether the government would try the 10 men on the contempt charges.

In San Francisco, Charles Garry, Seale's lawyer, said he was elated that the contempt sentence was overturned "but I'm disappointed if we have to go through another trial."

Authorize Increase
In '72 Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting to offset insufficient U.S. production, President Nixon on Thursday approved a 15 per cent increase in oil imports for the remainder of 1972.

He signed a proclamation permitting a boost of 230,000 barrels a day in the quotas on imports of crude and unfinished oil from the Middle East, Latin America and Canada.

Nixon acted on the recommendation of the eight-member government Oil Policy Committee, headed by George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

It was the fourth time since February, 1970 that import levels have been raised because of reports oil production has not kept up with increasing demands.

Oil specialists have said the United States will probably depend on imports for 46 per cent of its national oil requirements by 1980.

Elmer Bennett, assistant director of OEP said the latest revision is the result of reevaluation of the balance of supply and demand. Under present conditions, Bennett said, domestic production would not meet anticipated demands for the rest of the year without the aid of imports.

Under Nixon's order, the daily quota on imports from the Middle East and Latin America was raised from the previous level of 965,000 barrels a day to 1,165,000 barrels.

The Canadian allotment was boosted by 30,000 barrels a day to a new total of 570,000 barrels daily.

Under the regulations, Bennett said, overseas allocations can be used to substitute for Canadian imports.

The quota was increased last time in December. Generally, the quotas have been set up on a production formula based on about 12.2 per cent of estimated domestic production. But they have had to be reevaluated frequently.

Trans-Alaska Oil
Pipeline Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton gave notice Thursday of his intention to permit an 800-mile oil pipeline across Alaska, but opponents of the project immediately promised a new court battle.

In his decision, Morton ruled out an alternative proposal, a route across Canada.

In Vancouver, B.C., Canada's minister of external affairs, Mitchell Sharp, called the pipeline plan "a very, very foolish move" and said Canada would oppose it.

The oil pipeline proposal has been stalled for two years by a court injunction, won by environmental groups, requiring the Interior Department to complete an environmental impact study before making a decision.

A spokesman for these groups said they will fight Morton's decision in court.

Simultaneously, a federal appeals court handed the environmentalists a procedural victory by allowing intervention in the case by a Canadian member of parliament and Canadian citizen organizations.

Supporters of the pipeline plan welcomed Morton's announcement but one of them, Alaska's lone House member, Democrat Nick Begich, said the case would be tied up in court another year.

Under the preliminary injunction issued by federal judge George L. Hart in 1970, Morton had to complete an environmental study and then give the court and the environmentalists two weeks' notice before taking action on the application of seven oil companies for a right-of-way across Alaska.

Morton issued the impact statement last March 20, allowed 45 days for written comment from the public, a deadline which ended one week ago, and gave the required two weeks notice Thursday.

He said, "The permits will be issued as soon as that can be done without violating any court order."

In explaining his decision, Morton said he considered both the proposed route from Alaska's north slope to a port at Valdez with a tanker transport link to the U.S. west coast, and an alternate all-land route through Canada.

Both routes posed some environmental problems, he said, but the Canadian route would take three to five years to complete.

"We need this oil," he said, "and we need it now."

"I am convinced," he said, "that it is in the national interest to avoid the delays and uncertainties of the Canadian route. The North Slope oil is being produced under the terms of the lease, and for the benefit of the United States."

Enough To Turn The Stomach

The joint Food and Drug Administration-General Accounting Office report on unsanitary conditions in food manufacturing plants is enough to turn a strong man's stomach. Though many operations of this kind meet exacting standards, the dismal fact is that a large proportion of them process food in surroundings of intolerable filth and adulteration.

The FDA inspectors and GAO auditors did not get around to more than a fraction of the nation's many thousands of food processing establishments. Their findings are representative, however, and what the sampling in 21 states shows is that the sanitary conditions range from questionable to abominable in two out of every five plants.

Only 30.9 per cent of the plants inspected were found to be in compliance with the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act's total ban on filth or decomposition in foods shipped interstate. Plants having "minor unsanitary conditions" which "would not reasonably be considered as having a potential for adulterating the product" comprised another 28.9 per cent. But the inspectors found "significant unsanitary conditions" involving "serious potential or actual food adulteration" in a depressingly high 23.7 per cent of the establishments, and somewhat less serious "unsanitary conditions" in 16.5 per cent.

Those are shocking figures. The descriptions of conditions underlying the figures are even more shocking. It is, quite simply, disgusting that in this supposedly enlightened time enormous amounts of food—jams and jellies, spices, macaroni, pizza, cheese, ice cream and many other products—are prepared for the table in such surroundings.

One part of the GAO's analysis of the situation is of particular interest. The accounting agency notes that in recent years sanitary conditions in the food industry have been worsening, and observes that under the FDA's system inspections tend to focus on relatively few plants. "Therefore," the GAO says, "it (the FDA) did not know the magnitude, nationwide, of unsanitary conditions in food manufacturing plants..." The General Accounting Office sees "a serious problem of unsanitary conditions" and says this warrants "continuous assessment and attention by FDA." The public will say amen to that.

A No. 1 Industry Problem

What's the biggest security problem in industry today? Espionage by competitors? Bomb threats? Riots?

None of these. According to a nationwide survey by the American Society for Personnel Administration in co-operation with the Bureau of National Affairs, the No. 1 headache is still theft—most often theft by employees. Vandalism comes second in frequency, bomb scares are third and drug abuse is fourth.

To get an indication of current policies and practices in industrial security, the two organizations polled a cross-section of companies in a variety of industries. Responses were received from 176 of them—63 per cent manufacturing, 25 per cent nonmanufacturing and 12 per cent governmental and nonprofit concerns.

Security problems have brought many changes in company policies. The survey found that practices include:

— Lie Detector Tests — 20 per cent of the large companies (more than 1,000 employees) use them.

— Package Checks — 40 per cent of the large companies and 20 per cent of the small companies (fewer than 1,000 employees) have initiated them.

— Identification Badges — 50 per cent of the large companies use them.

— Electronic Surveillance — 30 per cent of the large companies use it in high risk areas. This includes closed-circuit television.

Moral deterioration, less respect for authority and greater instability among today's employees were some of the explanations offered by personnel executives for the increased need for security programs.

On the encouraging side, however, while just under half of the companies said that employee theft was a relatively frequent occurrence, more than half reported it was rarely, if ever, a problem for them.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Well, we've run out of time. Thank you for pouring your heart out and telling us your very touching story—and now a message about dog food..."

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Nixon took his most drastic military action on the Vietnam war on Monday, he simultaneously softened his stand on peace terms.

His new Vietnam pullout offer marks some easing from his past Indochina peace terms, but not enough to satisfy Hanoi at this stage.
"First, all American prisoners of war must be returned," Nixon said in setting forth his conditions Monday night. "Second, there must be an internationally supervised cease-fire throughout Indochina."

"Once prisoners of war are released, and once the internationally supervised cease-fire has begun, we will stop all acts of force throughout Indochina. At that time we will proceed with a complete withdrawal of all American forces from South Vietnam within four months."

Administration officials noted these "moderations," as they put it, from the bid made by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger last May 31 to North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho, in which Kissinger proposed a U.S. withdrawal within six months in return for a cease-fire and prisoner exchange.

The withdrawal deadline is shortened from six months to four. This presumably takes into account that fewer GIs remain in South Vietnam, so pull-out logistics would be easier.

A cease-fire leaving North and South Vietnamese forces in place where they are now would give the Communists control over a lot more territory than they had a year ago.

However, the administration officials refused to say just how much South Vietnamese territory the Reds might be allowed to retain under Nixon's newest cease-fire offer. They said the terms of the cease-fire would be an item for negotiation.

Since the launching of the North Vietnamese offensive at the end of March and U.S. retaliation through air raids on the North, administration leaders have set forth another condition. As Nixon put it in an April 28 speech:

"I have ordered that our air and naval attacks on military installations in North Vietnam be continued until the North Vietnamese stop their offensive in South Vietnam."

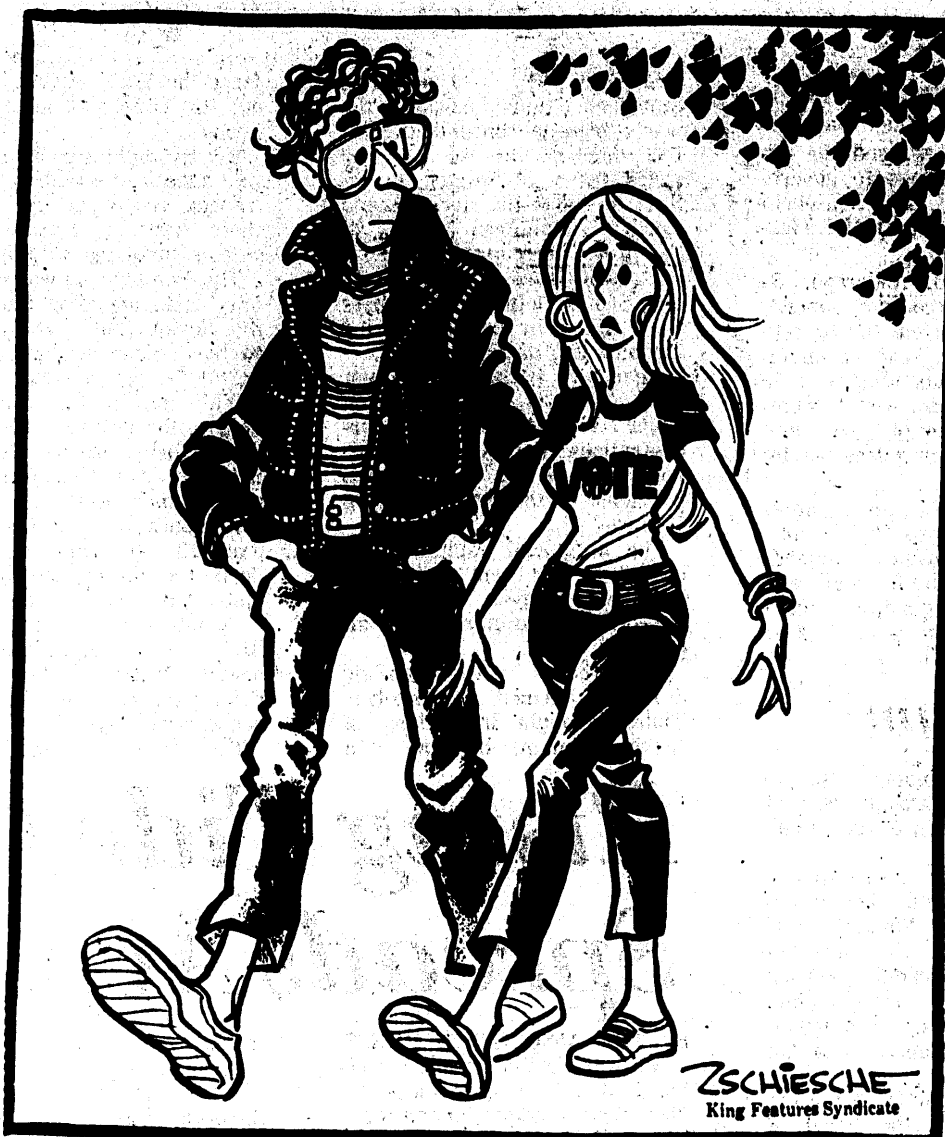

While administration officials have not spelled out just what the newly proposed cease-fire would involve, obviously it would include a halt in the Hanoi offensive as well as a halt in U.S. air and naval bombardments.

In any event Nixon's latest U.S. withdrawal offer is admittedly unacceptable at this time to the enemy, which has rebuffed past Nixon bids.

"We're not saying that the other side will accept it," Kissinger acknowledged to newsmen Tuesday. "We're saying it is a fair proposal and that the other side should accept it."

The presidential adviser voiced hopes that Communist envoys would find the Nixon plan more appealing after the current battle in South Vietnam ebbs, which he estimated would be in about three weeks.

'I Dig McGovern Putting Down The Establishment... How Can He Want To Be The President?'

Washington Dope, Gambling Are Crime Keys

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — A number of private and government studies now seem agreed no real dent in crime in this country can be achieved until illegal gambling and heroin can be brought under control.

Illicit gambling brings $20 billion a year to finance the syndicate and bankroll loansharking, the infiltration of legitimate business, prostitution and a host of other illegal pursuits.

The process snowballs. Loan-shark victims are pressured into theft and hijacking. Infiltrated "legitimate" firms are used for distributing stolen goods.

One recent study says flatly the criminal justice system's inability to curb urban crime can, in many respects, be attributed to heroin addiction. Some criminal court judges have found that 75 per cent of all the cases they try involve defendants with a history of heroin use.

It is not news that many, perhaps most, heroin users must turn to crime to support their habit.

But with these conclusions on gambling and heroin at hand, it is strikingly evident that, to date, very little headway has been made in drying up either.

Several states have experimented with legalized lotteries, off-track betting and other forms of government-controlled gambling. Thus far there is no convincing evidence these states are successfully competing with the numbers men and other syndicate types. For one, no way has been found whereby the state can match the handy neighborhood runner, the ease of credit (backed by enforcers) and the secrecy of the illegitimate operator (which permits tax evasion).

Probably, more concentrated attacks on the crime syndicates have been carried out these past few years than at any time in the past. Arrests have reached new records. But there is no indication that syndicate strength has been sapped.

The studies suggest, in fact, that the underworld is growing in power.

The heroin situation is no brighter. Despite some highly skilled police work, nationally and internationally, some brilliant diplomatic negotiations with Turkey, Laos, France and other lands, and truly extensive penetration of some international heroin syndicates, there is no sign the drug traffic is broken or going into a decline.

All this is true despite the strategically sensible decision to concentrate on the major syndicates and on finding the weak links in those syndicates. Thus the effort has not been spread overly thin by going after every pusher and user, which would have been like dipping water out of the ocean with a teaspoon.

What we must have now is a highly concentrated research effort, comparable with sending a man to the moon, aimed at discovering just what would be effective in breaking up illegal gambling and the heroin trade. Should this research cost $50 billion over the next decade, it would, if successful, be cheap

"at double the price." For, as noted above, illegal gambling and heroin alone add up to an estimated $20 billion a year and provide the base for other crimes costing the citizen several tens of billions of dollars a year additionally in direct costs and more billions in public and private police and other protective services.

Ann Landers: Relays Message On Wings Of 'Joke'

Dear Ann Landers: I have some advice for the woman who is allergic to her husband's cigarette smoke. It seems the luncheon insists on smoking the room blue when guests are present because he knows she won't make a scene.

My sister had the same problem. Here's how she solved it. She went to the army surplus store and bought a gas mask. The minute her husband reached for a cigarette she put on the gas mask. Needless to say this gesture attracted a great deal of attention and raised some embarrassing questions. When it became apparent that Mr. Marvelous was an inconsiderate heel who put his pleasures before his wife's health, he cut it out.

If this sounds like a radical measure let me assure you that the situation warranted it. Please print this letter for all the folks out there who are sick of inhaling other people's cigarette smoke and would like to take some positive action.—Winston Salem

Dear Win: We checked the army surplus stores in Chicago and learned that gas masks are available for $7.95. Thank you for the suggestion. Many a serious message has been relayed on the wings of a "joke."

Dear Ann Landers: I was the Other Woman and now I am the Second Wife. This letter will run counter to the Puritan ethic, so you probably won't print it. But someone ought to make it clear that there are husbands with legitimate gripes—men who tried to make a marriage work, found it impossible, and shoved off.

My husband's first wife nearly doubled her weight within ten years. She ran a pig sty instead of a home, produced several children her husband didn't want (and wasn't ready for), became a screaming hagmother, was jealous of her husband's friends; spent beyond his income and drove him crazy with her nagging.

I did nothing to attract her husband's attention. I was simply there when he needed someone to talk to. It could have been one of several women, but I happened to be "the one."

Contented husbands don't look for outside company. They go home to their families after work. The first wife has the first chance. Whether or not she succeeds depends on how good she is at meeting the challenges of marriage.—Indignant

Dear Dig: Your position must have some validity because I'm hearing from more and more people who say their second marriage is a lot better than their first. Apparently some husbands, and some wives, too, must live through an unsuccessful marriage in order to know how to make a second marriage work. Expensive lesson? You bet, but it's the only way some folks can learn.

Dear Ann: Why do people tip the waitress when the cook spends hours preparing the food and the dishwasher does the dirty work? The waitress sits and smokes while the REAL work is being done in the kitchen. All she does is carry out the plates and collect that nice tip. I wish you'd blast this unfair practice.—Mad in Sioux Falls

Dear Mad: The waitress is the one whose personality (or lack of it) makes the first impression on the guest. She takes the order and carries the trays that sometimes weigh 30 pounds. She also keeps her eye on the table and makes sure everyone has what he wants—more water, more coffee, steak sauce, more butter, extra napkins, etc. A good waitress doesn't have time to sit around and smoke. She works like a horse and deserves the tip.

Law For Today

Q. Our lawyer has suggested that we may wish to incorporate our farm someday. Can you tell me what we will gain by becoming shareholders in a corporation instead of the personal owners of the farm? My husband thinks it's a good idea but I hate to see the family farm disappear.

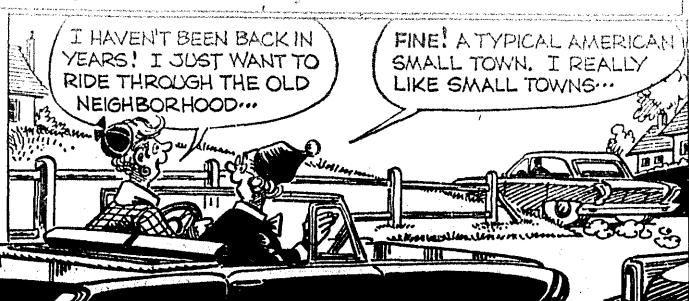

A. Incorporation has a number of advantages including ease of transfer of ownership during lifetime of present owners or upon death and continuity of operation when ownership may be divided among several heirs. They can name one of their members as operator, or hire someone else to run the farm and all share in the profits on an equitable basis provided through stock ownership. This often helps to prevent family differences or an unwise division of the farm property, thereby preserving the "family farm." In case of injury to an employee or other person, liability for damages is limited to the corporation. There are other advantages—your lawyer can explain.

Remarks About Bills Among Waiter's Woes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a restaurant waiter gets tired of hearing when he presents the bill:

"Why put it in front of me?"

Remember Her with a "Lucky Sheaffer" — Designed to charm. Golden moire design, 14K gold pen point. Pen, $15.00. Ballpoint, $7.50. Pencil, $7.50. Gift boxed.

"But you're a married man, Ronald. If you keep taking me to these expensive lunches, you won't be able to buy your kids new shoes this summer."

"I asked you for the bill, Giuseppe, not the Italian first World War debt."

"Nobody tips us. Why should we tip him?"

"Here, Jim, you go over it. I know it's too large but I've checked it twice and can't find anything wrong."

"Sorry, George, you'll have to throw in another buck to make it come out even. Aren't you the one who insisted on having a special shot of sherry in your mock turtle?"

"Frankly, if I were doing it, I'd leave him only 10 per cent, instead of 15 per cent. After all, he was pretty snooty, and he didn't tell us there was a special on chicken au gratin today."

"Why should a guy use a gun to hold up a bank when he can get this kind of money out of us with only a pencil?"

"In the old days they served better food than this at a saloon free lunch counter. Remember?"

"I admit it's my turn to pick up the check, fellows, but honest I did leave my wallet at home in my other pants this morning."

"Let's do it systematically. I'll go around the table. I was the roast beef. You sure you were the club sandwich, Ed? I'm sure I distinctly heard you order a minute steak rare. And who was the sneak who ordered the fourth Martini?"

"Oh, hell, hand the whole thing to me and I'll put it on my expense account. One form of suicide is just as good as another."

If you don't approve of North's jump to four spades, we must report that our old friend Y was sitting North and his partner Z South.

Y had watched Z make so many difficult hands for Work, Whitehead, Lenz and Foster back in the days of auction that he automatically raised him with any excuse whatsoever.

West made the best opening lead of a small diamond. East ruffed and returned a trump.

"This isn't the sort of hand they used to give me to play 50 years ago," said Z. "But I think justice may triumph."

He let the spade come around to his 10. Then he played dummy's ace of diamonds. East trumped and Z overruffed. Then Z ruffed again. Now he put a second club in dummy and another diamond in his own hand. East discarded a second heart on that fourth diamond, but it did him no good.

Z simply played his king of clubs. West took two club tricks, but then had to lead a heart. Z went up with dummy's queen and collected the rest of the tricks.

"You get better as you get older," beamed Y. "Could they have found a defense to beat you?"

"No," said Z. "It is a most interesting hand."

Not All Food Additives Are Villains

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Food additives have had a bad press lately. But not all of them are villains. Says G. O. Kermode:

"If food production is to increase enough to keep pace with population growth and the effort to improve nutrition generally in undernourished areas, chemicals that are not normally part of food will inevitably play an increasingly important role."

From the beginning of recorded history men have been adding nonfood substances to their food to make it more appetizing and easier to preserve. But since the 19th Century food additives have multiplied until now they may number as many as 2,500.

Kermode, a Briton, is head of the food standards program operated jointly by the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization and World Health Organization. He discussed man's tinkering with food in a recent issue of Scientific American.

Must be Examined

Additives are used for such purposes as enhancing flavor, improving color, preserving freshness, and protecting nutritional value. Every time a new additive is proposed, it must be examined from the standpoint of need and safety. Sometimes a once accepted additive is ruled out on the basis of new evidence, as in the case of cyclamate sweeteners in the United States.

But how can all additives in a list of 2,500, some dating back to ancient times, be evaluated? Tests to obtain approval of a single new additive can cost more than $100,000.

Additives fall generally in five categories: Flavors, colors, preservatives, texture agencies such as thickeners, and miscellaneous — everything from materials to maintain moisture to others to maintain crispness.

Flavors are the largest category—1,100 to 1,400 of them. Insufficient information on their possibly poisonous or disease-causing aspects make flavors among the hardest of all additives to regulate.

An Immense Task

"Evaluating them all for safety would be an immense task," according to Kermode. And there may be greater need to investigate "the safety of more important and potentially more dangerous additives."

Considering the cost of investigating a possibly harmful additive, governments and the food industry must hope for a greater international exchange of toxicological data, according to Kermode.

He noted that different nations have different rules. Take colors. The British will have a special problem when they become a fully fledged member of the European Economic Community: "Kippers will no longer be golden and sausages will no longer be 'nicely pink' unless the community's list of permitted colors is extended."

In any case, "food additives have become part of everyday life and undoubtedly will play an increasing role with advances in food technology," says Kermode. "The prospect is not necessarily bad, because properly used additives can bring the consumer significant benefits."

FRIDAY, MAY 12 — Born today, you are an extremely tenacious and determined person when it comes to things you care about. Otherwise, yours is a happy-go-lucky personality that couldn't seem to care less about things. Family, friends, the bringing of a single task to peak form: these are important to you, these you will work for and toward, these you will make any sacrifice for. Money, on the other hand, means little to you and, indeed, you sometimes have to be reminded that it is needed if you are to keep home and family together.

You possess an exceptionally pleasant nature. It is not that you consciously aim to please; it is simply that you cannot help trying to make others happy. Nothing makes you feel worse yourself than to see another saddened by his circumstances; nothing makes you feel more euphoric than to know that you have helped another to rise above his circumstances either spiritually or materially.

You have an excellent mind but you are sometimes inclined not to use it to best advantage. An emotional person first and foremost, you do nothing to hide your feelings and very little to temper them with reason when it comes to making decisions. You may find, however, that with a little more logic and a little less dependency upon your emotional responses you will soon be able to better your batting average when it comes to important contacts.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, May 12
TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Seek out a special friend to enjoy this Saturday with. Talk over old times; you may have temporarily forgotten something that is of importance.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — You can provide another with tion were for CARE from GFWC; certificate of commendation for beautification division, Mrs. H. J. Wright, chairman.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Robert Hierman, Mrs. Roy Shelton, Mrs. John Hadden, Mrs. John Chapman, Mrs. John Marshall, Mrs. H. J. Wright, Mrs. Thomas Craver, Mrs. A. G. Stainforth, Miss Charlotte Sieber, Mrs. Paul Gagey, Miss Catherine Rapp, Mrs. J. W. Cully, Mrs. Jesse Kinnett, Mrs. Dorothy Walker, Mrs. D. C. CANCER (June 22-July 23)

Keep your temper, especially when faced with the kind of illogic that leads to serious error. Be constructive in your criticism.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — In both the mental and physical areas of your development, things go very well today. You can be proud of the results of your efforts.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — An excellent day for getting in touch with friends. Letter-writing serves a double purpose by giving news of yourself and reestablishing contact.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Keep one eye on the future and both feet on the ground. Then you may be able to judge from among many activities offered which is best for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) — You can be the secret force behind another's success. Take care, however, that you don't drive so hard that you drive him or her away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Grasp the concept of what another's trying to tell you and it won't be necessary for you to understand every word. Refuse to be discouraged.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Take no unnecessary risks today. A Saturday for spending time with the very young and — or the very old. You have much to offer either group.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Afternoon and evening seem calculated to confuse even the most well-organized Aquarius. Realize a minor goal in mid-morning.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — Make an effort to look on the funny side of things today. Learn a lesson from children; be a good loser.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Though you may suffer a loss this morning, you must not be discouraged. Afternoon hours bring much opportunity for recovery; take it.

DEMO WOMEN TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Morgan County Democratic Woman's club held a dinner meeting May 8th at the Ranch House. There were three guests, Doris Wilson, Norma Kern and Democratic chairwoman of Morgan County, Betty Houston.

President Dorothy VanWinkle conducted the meeting. Lucille Bowe gave the secretary's report and in absence of Bernice Dodsworth, also that for the treasurer. A bake sale was planned to be held in September.

A nominating committee was named, Lucille Bowe, Barbara Gross and Edith Manning. Mrs. Houston reported on the progress of the re-organized Democratic Central Committee and announced the fund raising dinner for Paul Simon as Saturday, June 3rd. Tickets are twelve dollars and fifty cents. This is to help in expenses of the recent campaign. The last meeting of the season will be at 8 p.m. June 13th with Betty Casey.

Miss Marguerita Schoedsack was presented with a certificate at the American Association of University Women meeting Saturday, May 6, indicating receipt by the national AAUW Educational Foundation of a gift of $500 named in her honor by the Jacksonville branch.

Mrs. Robert Manlove, president (above, left) made the announcement, in recognition of Miss Schoedsack's fifty years of active membership in AAUW her long service as art supervisor of School District 117 and her continued service to the community since her retirement in offering creative art classes in a studio in her own home where many persons, young and old, enjoy working in art and hobby craft projects.

Miss Schoedsack received her bachelor's of art degree from MacMurray College and MA degree from Greeley State Teachers College in Greeley, Colorado.

He shows the wrap look in a quiet tweed jacket with lynx collar, $280, and matching slacks, $70.

Or there's a red coat in a new machine-washable simulated suede.

This suede look-alike fabric is shown in a short orange jacket with matching slacks, $280, and in full length skirts, trimmed in lynx.

The monotone idea for separates includes camel cashmere sweater, slacks and jacket. Or a soft, deep blue combo.

But there are plenty of plaid combinations, including sweaters.

The trousers that look good with so many of the coats are leather-belted and pleated at the waist. So are the skirts. U-necked sweaters, at $20, can be worn with blouses—or reversed and worn alone for a bare-backed feeling.

The Cuddlecoat collection by Victor Joris and La Flaque de Paris, a division of Cuddlecoat, unleashed short vinyl jackets, plaid capes and full-length fur-trimmed evening coats.

"Lavish fur trims have always been big sellers," Joris said.

The topper was shown in shiny black with a very full back—and in a straighter blue and white checked style with red trim. This three-quarter length may look best with pants, but it does all right with a pleated skirt, too.

There were enough knee-length coats for the women who prefer a more conservative route into fall. One white coat was cut slightly fuller than last year's A-line.

"That's a happy medium for people who aren't ready for a radical change," said Joris, adding he likes the increased fullness of coats.

"For some reason, I've always thought of luxury as sort of looser, soft and flowing. Maybe it's a childhood thing. All the rich ladies you ever saw had wrap coats with fur collars."

The Cuddlecoat line runs $130 to $600. The La Flaque coats are priced $75 to $110.

Mrs. Glenn Blackwood, local Fellowships chairman, and Mrs. John Williams, Book Sale chairman, have been the leaders in raising the money for this year's honor gift. This is the 10th annual $500 Fellowships gift named by the Jacksonville branch in honor of outstanding members of the local group.

The AAUW Educational Foundation provides grants to women scholars who are completing work toward a doctorate or are engaged in post-doctoral research. Since 1888, when the first AAUW Fellowship was awarded, the program has grown to a record in 1970-71 of $481,000 in stipends and tuition awarded for advanced study and research to 83 women from the United States and to 50 women from 30 countries around the world. The total contributions for endowments and fellowships in 1970-71 alone amounted to over $648,000 from gifts, bequests and the efforts of some 165,000 AAUW members in over 1675 branches in fifty states, Washington, D.C., and Guam.

The slate includes: Don Henderson, commander; Al Kovachoff, senior vice commander; I. Goodman, junior vice commander; Elbert Brasel, judge; advocate; Charles Baker, chaplain; Gilman Squires, quartermaster; and trustees: Eugene Dodsworth, Leo Clancy, and John Stokes, legislative officer.

Elbert Brasel was named installing officer to install the new slate at the June 7th meeting.

Commander Hayden Walker called attention to the arrangements for Memorial Day which will be May 29. The membership will assemble at Calvary cemetery at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 27, to place flags on the graves of veterans. Services will be held at 9 a.m. at Calvary cemetery on May 29, followed by memorial rites in Central Park at 11 a.m.

The bingo committee turned over $300 to the barracks fund, leaving a balance in the bingo finances of $470.55.

The annual flag sale will be held on Friday, June 9, prior to Flag Day which will be on June 14.

The Barracks Auxiliary served a potluck dinner prior to the meeting.

In Cancer Immunotherapy

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The possibility of stimulating the body's natural defense mechanisms to reject cancer cells is emerging strongly from several new scientific studies.

Immunology, the study of the body's way of fighting infection, is the basis. This system enables man to develop immunity to polio virus, for example, and is the reason the body tends to reject a transplanted heart as foreign.

Thus it is a mystery why the body's immune cells—the white blood cells—do not repel the invasion of the foreign cancer cells. If a way can be found to awaken the white blood cells to the presence of the foreign cancer, this would be a powerful weapon against the disease.

Two scientific conferences, one now in Gatlinburg, Tenn., and one last week in Boston, heard progress reports of the immunotherapy of cancer.

Dr. Edmund Klein of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., told the Gatlinburg conference of his work with human cancer, including five women with cases of breast cancer considered hopeless. All had post operative recurrences of the cancer known as adenocarcinoma.

Klein said he attempted to stimulate the immune system by injecting the patients with a purified form of tuberculosis substance called PPD, for purified protein derivative of tuberculin.

The idea is that most people have developed an immunity to tuberculosis and that by injecting tuberculin into the site of a cancerous lesion, the substance reawakens the "memory" of the white blood cells to fight against the tuberculosis as they did when first exposed. In doing this, the entire immune system, derived from the thymus gland, fights the cancer at the same time.

Since this treatment, Klein reported, the cancers in all five women have been in remission, arrested, in varying degrees.

Klein also reported using immunotherapy on patients with internal cancers, involving the liver, spleen and other organs, with mixed results. Over three years, 15 of 26 cases successfully responded to immunotherapy, he said.

"Hopefully we can now extend the treatment further to a larger number of persons," Klein said in an interview. "It does look like it's a pretty general principle."

But Klein also cautioned that the work is still in its early stages. "The data presented here," he said, "should be viewed as exploratory and are primarily indicative of feasibility and of avenues justifying further pursuit, rather than as therapeutic procedures."

The (North) Vietnam's People's Army was formed in January, 1944, with 34 soldiers. Its commander was Gen. Vo Nguyen "Glap," now North Vietnamese defense minister.

Israeli Proclaims Own State Within A State

By THOMAS CHEATHAM
ACRE, Israel (UPI)—Eli Avivi got fed up with what he considered the expansionist policy of the Israeli government against his beachfront acre, so he proclaimed it a state within a state. "I didn't want to live in Israel any more," he told UPI. "I wanted my own country." Now, the authorities having responded by fencing him in, the self-styled president of "Achzibland" has demanded secure, agreed and recognized borders, to be determined in negotiations without preconditions.

Refugee for hundreds of youthful travelers whose taste for marijuana and hashish has landed them in the Holy Land. Avivi has a mustache curling down the sides of his mouth, gray sideburns lining his suntanned face, hair, or what's left of it, dangling curly to the shoulder, a middle age paunch obvious under his tight red T-shirt. He explained his bargaining position in an interview. "I'm not really serious—I just do this to antagonize the government."

Avivi began charging visitors 1.5 pounds (36 cents) for admission to the museum, and two pounds (48 cents) to spend a night in the hostel. The set-up has attracted many young people, one of the things the government is unhappy about. Even as Avivi was improving his place, so was the government busy in the area. A beachfront resort went up on the way he puts it. The encroachment got to be too much for Avivi and that's when he "seceded" from Israel and proclaimed his state of Achzibland. "Achzib" was the name of the region in pre-Biblical times, and it also was a Phoenician port. In answer to Avivi's action the government erected barbed wire topped fences around his property, including his access to the sea. Only a road to the buildings was left open. "They don't like the people who come here," Avivi said. "They want to kill my business in hopes I will leave."

The government has begun court action to get him off the property, but Avivi is resisting under an ancient law that holds a man cannot be removed from public land once he has been accepted as a tenant and pays his rent. What Avivi really wants is not to be left alone to run his museum and hostel. He seems to think if he makes enough fun, he and the government can reach some compromise.

Gov. George Wallace Up Close

By IRA BERKOW
(Second of a Series)
WITH WALLACE CAMPAIGN
(NEA) — On a snowy morning, Alabama Gov. George Wallace entered the cabin of the two-engine charter plane. The plane was taking him on yet another lengthy jaunt in his combative presidential campaign.

Gov. Wallace unbuttoned his black cashmere coat, which covered a black suit. Wallace, short, bushybrowed, wrapped in black, might have been sinister except that the coat sleeves were baggy and he looked dwarfish.

PRINCESS MARGARET seems pleased with the way they're running at the Badminton Horse Trials at Badminton, England, but not so, her husband, Lord Snowdon. In front of her is her nephew, Prince Edward, a son of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II.

wife Cornelia beside him at the window seat. A reporter sat across the aisle.

Gov. Wallace stuck a dark cigar with a yellow holder into his mouth. "I'll talk to you in a minute," said Wallace good-naturedly, to the reporter, "but first I gotta make sure the weather's good. It's bad, I'll have to be instructin' the crew. Not that I'm afraid of flyin', but I don't like flyin' in bad weather."

Cornelia peered out the window. "I don't see nothing but damn fog," she said, and sat back.

"Naw, there's sun. I'm sure of it."

She emitted a soft cough.

"Smoke, bother you, honey?" he asked. "I'll put the cigar out."

"No, it's all right," she said cordially. Then she took out a map and began marking off skiing locations. She planned to take her children on their first ski holiday. (Coincidentally, that night, he will make a speech condemning some politicians for taking the taxpayers' money and going off skiing in Switzerland.)

His campaign has been going well and Gov. Wallace is in good spirits. His mouth, which seems naturally curved in a snarl, is now broken in a smile. He turns to the reporter and is in a reminiscent mood.

"All these people on welfare," he says, "they gotta get out and work. I don't mean the lame and the halt and the blind and the deaf (his tone lowers at this litany, as it does when he comes to this part in his speeches) but the loafers and chiselers. I worked my way out of poverty, a lot of us have."

"I grew up on a farm down in Clio, Alabama. We didn't have no outdoor plumbing and I had to draw water. I worked 12 hours for 50-cents a day pickin' cotton. I went to college and drove a truck six hours a day for a dollar."

"I remember when I was in the University of Alabama Law School and I had to defend this ole guy. He had put 19 sticks of dynamite under his wife's bed, tied the dynamite to a 50-foot fuse. The fuse burned one foot a minute. Then he went to some honky tonk nearby and met his girlfriend and danced to the 'Wabash Cannonball,' I reckon. His wife was blown clear through the roof."

"There was a lot of emotion in the case, because the people thereabouts knew he had give his wife the syphilis, too. It looked like he was gonna get the electric chair."

"I wanted to get him off for life. I only had one thing goin' for me, his little 12-year-old boy. He cried a lot. So I put him right up front for the jurors to see. I'd go up to him and whisper in his ear, 'You know, Sonny, they wantin' to lynch your daddy.' Oooohh." Wallace imitated the crying child, then he laughed. "The jury was cryin', too."

He laughed again. "I told the jury, give the man life just for his little boy over there, so he can see his daddy in prison. Do some- thin' for the boy. It took the jury 30 minutes to give a verdict of life."

The story shows both Wallace's bent toward expedience. ("He won't mention race until he has to," said one Alabama newspaperman) and also his knowledge of touching the heart of "the average man." Perhaps because he, too, can be touched. As governor, he dreaded signing the death certificate of condemned murderers ("We

Scientists Study How to Prevent Deterioration Of Pilot's Skills

By ELDON BARRETT
SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Scientists at the Boeing flight simulation laboratories are attempting to learn how to prevent deterioration of a pilot's critical skills.

The 26-month study, financed by a $123,000 National Aeronautics and Space Administration contract, is concerned specifically with the flight skills required by astronauts. But its findings are expected to prove to be of great value to commercial, civilian and military aviators as well. "In piloting either spacecraft or high-performance aircraft, there are a great number of tasks that must be combined—tasks that require fine eye-and-hand coordination, split-second timing, and rapid decision making and comprehension of data," said Dr. Thomas E.

Sitterley, educational technology and research manager of the firm. "It is important that we come to understand precisely how quickly each of these skills begins to deteriorate when it hasn't been used regularly. The consequence of this deterioration can be devastating in an emergency situation." Cites Objectives Sitterley, who heads the study training most appropriate for each element of a pilot's tasks. —To evaluate and recommend to NASA the most efficient and cost effective techniques for keeping the pilot's skills sharp. The first phase of the study is now complete. Nine groups of pilots used a flight simulator to perform the tasks involved in taking a two-stage space vehicle from launch to orbit insertion. They repeated the test at intervals ranging from one to six months. Between the two simulated flights some groups were given refresher training, some studied briefing materials periodically, and others received no interim training.

The Results
The results demonstrated that instrument flight control skills remain relatively unaffected after two months of disuse but deteriorate rapidly thereafter. Procedural tasks showed unacceptable deterioration after only one month. Briefing and static techniques proved to be effective for retention of skills required by procedural tasks. Skills used in continuous flight control, however, seem to require refresher training which includes dynamic display and control techniques.

The second phase will require pilots to train for simulated spacecraft descent and landing including encounters with system failures which would require emergency procedures. The study employs a full aerodynamic model of a space shuttle vehicle, computerized within the company's space flight simulator. The visual portion of the "flight" is simulated by use of camera systems and realistic terrain models.

Thursday evening, May 4, of the "big" telescope as it serves in as the planet Venus. Opposite Leonard Poole makes adjustments to the scope as parent Richard Curtis waits turn for viewing the stars. The lower picture shows the interested students who attended the novel evening science class at Washington.

Assisted by Don Kirchhofer, Turner Junior High science teacher, the activity was a culmination of a science unit. Mr. Kirchhofer serves as science consultant for elementary teachers and students. Telescopes, on loan from Turner, were set up on the Washington School lawn. Several junior high students also assisted.

The weatherman cooperated beautifully by providing a cloudless sky for viewing the stars and planets.

The activity was made available to interested students and parents. About 75 people were in attendance. Parent volunteers assisting Mr. Poole and Mr. Mitchell included Mrs. Ronald Helmlich, Mrs. Raymond DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. George Keech and James Flynn.

How To Read A Person Like A Book 11. Displaying Confidence

Confidence can bring about self-control and the reverse also is true. Self-control can easily degenerate into nervousness and frustration. Consider all the attitudes as behavior in motion as a process. A confident person is likely to talk without hand-to-face gestures like covering the mouth and nose and headscratching, so in reading gestures for confidence, one should watch for a doubt or other negative gesture that would contradict the feeling projected. A proud, erect stance, is also a clear indication of confidence. Confident persons have more frequent eye contact than those who are unsure or attempting to conceal. Eyes also blink less.

Steeping, or joining fingertips to form a church steeple, immediately communicates that the person is very sure of what he is saying, or wants you to believe so. Hands joined together behind the back with chin thrust upward is one of authority and suggests who is in command, such as a sergeant. People indicate their territorial rights by putting feet up on a desk or an open drawer in the office, leaning against his car, putting an arm around another's waist, walking hand-in-hand. People also place objects, such as a book or purse, on a desired space indicating a right to it. Another way to indicate dominance or superiority is to talk down to a person or stand over him while he is seated.

ROODHOUSE CWF TO ATTEND VIRDEN WORKSHOP

ROODHOUSE — The CWF met at the Roodhouse Christian church May 2, with 14 members and one guest attending. The meeting was opened with the CWF prayer recited in unison. The business session was conducted by Louise Jones and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. The 1972-1973 officers will be installed at the June 6 meeting and a memorial service for deceased members will also be held. Blessing Box offering will be dedicated. The CWF evening group will be invited to attend the luncheon meeting on June 6.

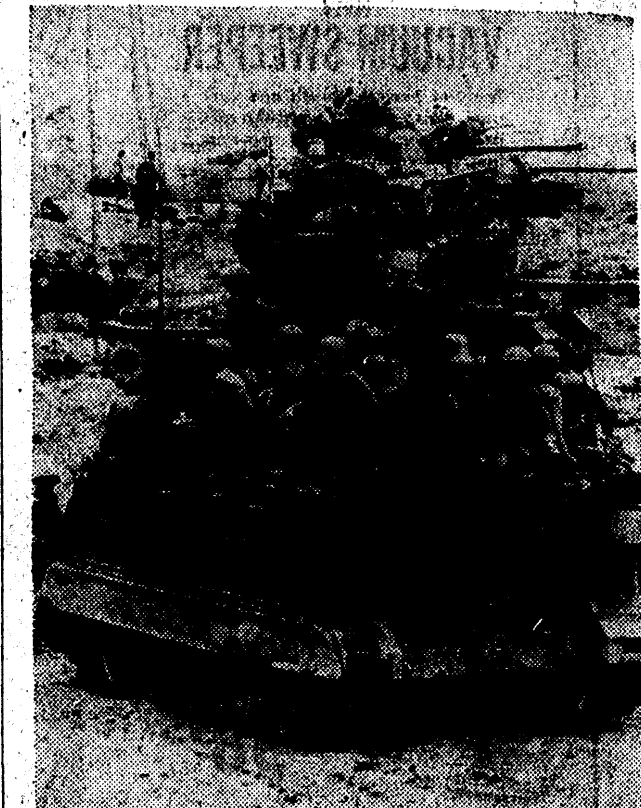

Mary Sifton, service co-chairman, reported 108 commemorative stamps and eight pairs of eye glasses had been sent to the appropriate addresses. A list of items needed for the June 12-16 Vacation Church School will be posted in the church entrance soon.

Bessie Reed, reading chairman, and Elizabeth Stansbury, card chairman, gave their reports. Mary Williams reported four women will be attending the CWF workshop in Virden.

There will be a farewell dinner for the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Williams and son, Evan, on Tuesday, May 22, at 6:30 p.m. Rev. Williams will begin his new pastorate at Roodhouse Christian church in East Point on June 1.

The lesson on Samaritans from the study book, Shiny Down Your Sycamore, was given by Sarah Sheppard. Workshop was presented by Elaine Ferguson. The meeting closed with the Fellowship benediction. Hostesses were Bartha Welch, Elizabeth Stansbury and Marguerite Hillman.

Is Broadway Losing Lure?

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — George M. Cohan defined the theatrical universe succinctly.

"If you're not on Broadway," asserted the Yankee Doodle Dandy proudly, "you're out of town."

Such fine disdain for other stages in the good old days seems like a quaint tintype today. Attrition of the glamor image began with talking pictures and grew with television. Still the notion lingered on.

There has been increasing evidence recently, however, of festering disenchantment, particularly among players themselves. New stars such as Barbara Streisand and Dustin Hoffman take off like comets for lusher showbiz climes. Veterans such as Henry Fonda and Shirley Booth drop by rarely.

The latest to proclaim possibly irrevocable departure are Eli Wallach and Anne Jackson, an eminent husband-wife team of 25 years experience.

"We are not playing on Broadway any more," Miss Jackson proclaimed in an interview the other day. "This is it. We've had it, quite honestly. Because I think the Broadway theater has had it."

To which Wallach adds: "Listen, the geographical area doesn't mean anything now. It used to be like Cohan said, but not anymore. Cohan played for audiences that came to the theater and wanted it."

"It's kind of a crap game now. Either you get a hot role and go or everything is sad, sad."

The duo's desire to concentrate hereafter all stagework Off-Broadway, in regional theater or on hinterland tour was announced in the wake of the arrival of "Promenade All!" a light-hearted comedy about a family through four generations. It ran into mixed reviews. That didn't bother them too much; what really dismayed them was the about-face response of some audiences after the notices came out.

"Everywhere we played on tour they were rolling in the aisles," reports Wallach, "and the preview audiences were the same way."

The show's management, however, decided that the initial reaction would be succeeded by the same genial wind-of-mouth that generated previous boxoffice enthusiasm, and kept the production running.

participatory feature of an organization known as L.A.R.C.

That acronym stands for Loose Actors Revolving Company. Loose, Wallach quickly adds, in the sense of casual or impromptu.

"It's an amorphous amalgam about 30 of us formed a few months ago," he explains. Among the participants are Anne Bancroft, Martin Balsam, George C. Scott and Julie Harris.

"Maybe it's insane to think you can get 30 actors to work together, but this first play has given us a marvelous experience."

"The idea is to create machinery so that actors who have tasted, in quotes, 'glory' would be able to do plays without restrictive long-term commercial pieces of an ice field. He has to keep one step ahead of sinking—he's got to be able to go from theater to film to TV, regardless of personal satisfaction. The equation seems to be—the worthwhile things you will do at a sacrifice. The junk you'll get well paid for."

Wallach talks with the assurance of a man who knows he can always make a movie. Ever since "The Magnificent Seven," the husky-voiced actor has been in demand by Italian film-makers.

"He can go off and make spaghetti Westerns," says his wife, "while I have my jollies performing in some more classic plays."

ACCIDENT CHAIRMAN

PITTSFIELD — The new nine-member Pike county board held its first meeting Monday morning, May 1 at the courthouse in Pittsfield. They were sworn into office by Circuit Judge Cecil Burrows. Glenn Secret of Perry was elected chairman.

Board members drawing four-year terms were Harold Booth of Pearl, Bruce Boren of Nebo, Lyle Hayden of Pleasant Hill, Oral Bethard of Barry and Glenn Secret. Those drawing two-year terms were Mrs. Lois Franklin of Pleasant Hill, Ronald Ehler of Detroit Township, Derald McCauchen of Milton, and Gawnin Brokaw of Summer Hill.

Chairman Secret announced these standing committees: Scientific instruments placed on the moon by the Apollo II astronauts were protected from the extreme cold by heaters fueled with a plutonium radioisotope.

The last Tuesday of each month was selected as the regular Pike county board meeting date, beginning at 10 a.m. The board also adopted a rule that the board chairman may serve two years and may not succeed himself in office. He will receive an additional $200 a year as chairman. Board members receive $20 for each meeting plus ten cents per mile for transportation to and from the meetings.

Don't Keep Tots Away On Nursing Home Visits

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—I am writing in response to Marie's letter in which she expressed her thought that administrators of nursing homes should prevent children and babies from visiting because they are often carriers of colds and other illnesses and because they run up and down the halls. Surely Marie does not have anybody in nursing homes or she could not say anything like that. I have worked as an occupational therapist for three years and find the greatest pride the elderly have is in their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. They look forward to their visits for weeks in advance. They tell their friends and when the visitors arrive, parade them down the halls showing off the home to the visitors, and their family to the other residents. Even the most senile will light up when a child is near. No matter how crippled a patient may be, a baby always brings a smile.

Nursing homes are for recuperating people and also home for many who will never go or live anywhere else. Children bring happiness into the lives of these people. Marie, adults carry germs, too, and even nurses and administrators. Residents of nursing homes are like customers and you have to try to keep them happy and comfortable until the dear Lord decides He can do a better job of it. How long would you want to live if you were confined to bed and were never allowed to see a new grandchild? A person's strong will to live can fight off many an illness or virus. Take away something as important as someone's own family and you have infected him or her with something more serious than a physical malady. —B.G.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I bought a high antique desk that has a lot of compartments with spilled ink in them. This looks as if it had been there for years. Does anyone have an idea on how I can remove these old ink spots without injuring the nice old look of the desk?—MRS. H.R.

DEAR POLLY — My Pei Peeve is having a standing appointment at the beauty shop and then have to sit and wait long past my time while the operator "works in" someone else. —LENA

Last Seven Missing Miners Found Dead

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — The last seven missing miners in the Sunshine silver workings have been found dead, bringing the final toll in the fiery disaster to 91, General Manager Marvin C. Chase announced Thursday night.

Lewis Helm, Interior Department information officer, said three bodies were found on the 4,200-foot level of the huge mine and another four were discovered at 5,200 feet.

During the day, 33 other bodies were discovered by rescue crews fighting gas and smoke as they descended in a small elevator to nearly a mile deep level.

Luzinski's Hit In 12th Inning Drops Padres 6-5

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Greg Luzinski's run-scoring single to left field with two out in the 12th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over the San Diego Padres Thursday night.

Luzinski's game-winning hit came off losing reliever Gary Ross and scored Terry Harmon, who had led off the inning with a walk.

Larry Bowa sacrificed Harmon to second, before Tim McCarver was walked intentionally, Willie Montanez struck out and Luzinski delivered his decisive hit.

San Diego had tied the score 5-5 in the sixth on John Jeter's home run after the Phillies had knocked out starter Steve Arlin with two runs in the fourth and fifth.

Denny Doyle doubled home the two runs in the fourth and Luzinski tripled home Tim McCarver and scored on Don Money's single to put the Phils in front 5-4 in the fifth. Money had four hits and walked twice in six at-bats.

Each team scored once in the second, then San Diego used a double by Enzo Hernandez, an infield single by Leron Lee and Nate Colbert's eighth home run of the season to score three times in the third.

began filing from the compound near the main mine entrance when Chase announced earlier that 19 bodies had been discovered, leaving only the seven unaccounted for. Fourteen other bodies were found earlier in the day.

Chase had promised the rescue effort would continue until the remaining seven miners were accounted for.

A small rescue elevator, the only access to the 5,200-foot target area, halted when the bodies were found and progress after that was by inches. Workers in masks battled smoke and gas and had to come up periodically for relief and for new supplies of oxygen.

Workers and officials said if the men found clean air at the deeper level they have a chance. Seven of the bodies found as low as 4,400 feet lay beside open lunch pails, apparently overcome almost instantly.

Federal and state investigators meanwhile continued interviewing some of the 108 miners who scrambled to safety immediately when the fire swept through the mine nine days ago.

Two more men were discovered alive and well Tuesday after a week, and their stories also are going into the record of what caused the disaster, the safety regulations in force and the manner in which they were employed.

Wilbur Chapman Uncle Of Local Residents, Dies

Local survivors include: two nieces, Mrs. Sample, Mrs. Oral Conlee; two nephews, Albert and Elzy Conlee, all of Jacksonville.

He is also survived by his wife, Ethel of Frost Proof, Fla., and another niece, Mrs. Virgil Crump of Hudson.

Mr. Chapman was born Nov. 20, 1889 at Springfield, son of Samuel and Almira Chapman. He was a 13 year veteran of the U.S. Navy, having served during World War I, and was a member of the American Legion in Florida.

Funeral services and burial will be held Saturday at Frost Proof.

DEFENDANT GETS 14-DAY TERM FOR FALSE REPORT

Judge Gordon Sear ordered a Jacksonville man to serve 14 days in the county jail on his plea of guilty to disorderly conduct stemming from a false report that several items had been stolen from his auto.

Thomas Edward Shields, 30, formerly of 336 West Court filed a report with city police that his engine, transmission and two bucket seats had been stripped from his car parked behind the house where he lived.

City police testified that the investigation showed that Shields sold the engine and bucket seats to another person for $25. Shields said he did not have insurance on the auto but that the vehicle was financed through a local loan company.

Shields was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies and transferred to the county jail for serving his term. He was also ordered to pay $15 court costs and given credit for time already spent in jail. He was arrested by city police Wednesday.

Bond was set at $1,000 for 19-year-old Thomas Hanson of Waverly charged with battery. Hanson was denied the appointment of the public defender and ordered returned to the county jail pending an appearance May 18 at 10 a.m.

themselves in the old captain's quarters of the Constitution, "Old Ironside" of historic accomplishment in the War of 1812. She is moored in the Charlestown Navy Yard in Boston. They had refused to leave peacefully.

"The Navy respects the right of these men to hold their views," said Cmdr. Matthew Romano, a Navy public affairs officer. "However, they were on government property and the Navy has an obligation to protect the ship."

School children visiting the ship at the time were asked to leave, and the Constitution and the navy yard were closed to the public.

The federal building in downtown St. Paul, Minn., was closed to the public for several hours when 75 antiwar demonstrators blocked its front entrance. Employees were admitted through a rear door.

More than 300 demonstrators were arrested at Westover Air Force Base. Among them were Amherst President John Williams Ward, his wife, and Cornelia Mendenhall, wife of Smith President Thomas Mendenhall. Nearly a score of Amherst faculty members also were taken into custody.

"What I protest is there is no way to protest," Ward said. "I speak out of frustration and deep despair."

Police estimated attendance at an antiwar rally on the steps of the Capitol in Washington at 1,500. The crowd heard speeches by more than a dozen congressmen, including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Supporters of Nixon's policies gathered later on the capitol steps to hear brief speeches by Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, who is the Republican national chairman, and other GOP lawmakers. The crowd of 800 was recruited largely from the staff of the Republican National Committee headquarters and Republican congressional offices.

Santa Barbara demonstrators slowed traffic for a 12-mile stretch there by driving their own cars at a snail's pace, or by stepping in front of other cars. Highway patrolmen arrested a number of the protesters and impounded their cars.

There were 19 arrests in Chicago for blocking morning rush hour traffic.

In Kansas City, a group that included three women halted traffic and chained themselves to three cars. Police used bolt-cutters in removing them, and traffic was moving freely again in 45 minutes. The demonstrators, aged 18 to 26, were charged with interfering with traffic.

Angry workers caught in a traffic jam at the Philadelphia naval base drove off about 30 demonstrators who blocked the main entrance for half an hour. Protesters who lay down in the street were carried away by police.

There were 119 arrests of Southwest State College students who blocked traffic at the intersection of three highways in Marshall, Minn. And about 300 Michigan State University students blocked the major street in East Lansing, Mich., most of the night.

A second day of demonstrations led to 31 arrests at the Army Cold Regions Research Laboratory at Hanover, N.H., home of Dartmouth College. Those seized were blocking traffic; about 100 others tried to persuade workers not to report to their jobs. About a score of those arrested were Dartmouth students.

About 35 demonstrators stalled two vans in the main road leading to McEllan Air Force Base in Sacramento, Calif. They also picketed the three main gates. A spokesman said traffic flowed smoothly once the vans were removed by highway patrolmen.

Illinois college campuses were generally quiet Thursday and, although antiwar demonstrations continued on a small scale for the third consecutive day, some smaller schools sought to take the Vietnam question out of the streets.

Twenty-three persons were arrested in Chicago after demonstrators blocked morning rush-hour traffic again at two locations.

A noon rally was held at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, scene of violence Wednesday night.

Twenty-one persons, most of them students, were arrested by Carbondale and university security police after an 11 p.m. curfew was put into effect in an attempt to halt the violence which caused damage estimated at $4,000 to business buildings.

Meeting Thursday afternoon, the SIU Student Senate voted to help pay for the damages incurred by Carbondale merchants in Wednesday night's disruption. The amount to be donated was not specified. The body also condemned Wednesday night's action and warned students not to participate in further night demonstrations.

Plat Book Sale
Scott County 4-H members will be knocking on doors this Saturday, May 13. They will be selling Scott county plat books which came off the press in August 1971.

George Myers, Scott county extension advisor, said the 4-Hers are making this concentrated effort to raise money for three groups: the local 4-H clubs, the Scott county 4-H Federation and the Scott county Extension Service. The local clubs and the 4-H Federation will use their money for various 4-H projects. The Extension Service will use its share to purchase equipment and supplies for the Scott county Extension office.

Myers went on to say, "The Scott county plat book is as up-to-date as a plat book can be. Another plat book will not be published for another two and a half years. The book gives good reference to landowners, farm locations and size, and is a detailed map of the county."

porter that during the meeting he and Nixon had discussed his visit to Washington for trade talks but did not talk about Vietnam or the planned summit.

Ziegler said Patolichev's White House visit had been under discussion for several days. The minister had arrived in Washington on Sunday for talks with Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson and other officials, following up on the November visit to Moscow by then-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

Although officials would not comment, it seemed unlikely that the Soviet officials would use the meeting to deliver the Kremlin statement denouncing Nixon's orders to mine North Vietnamese ports.

The statement distributed by the government news agency said Nixon's actions are "fraught with serious consequences for international peace and security."

It pledged that the Soviet Union would continue giving the North Vietnamese "the necessary support," but did not spell out how the Kremlin would deal with the mines sown in Vietnamese harbors.

The Pentagon also refused to say whether Communist ships now bottled up behind the mine barrier will be bombed. However, Pentagon spokesman Friedman indicated they might not be attacked, saying, "Our main concern is which ships that might deliver supplies in the future."

To pay for the stepped-up naval and air operations, Friedman said, the Pentagon will ask for supplemental appropriations for this fiscal year and the one ending in 1973.

Searchers Find Harness, Suit Of Hijacker

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Searchers have found a parachute harness and jump suit they believe were discarded by the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines plane after he bailed out over Honduras with $303,000 in ransom, the government said Thursday night.

Farmers in the area of northern Honduras where the articles were found told government agents they saw a man sitting on the ground counting money before he disappeared into the countryside, the National Investigation Department said.

It said the man's shoulder and hands were injured, but a search of hospitals and clinics in the area produced no information on him.

Capt. Carlos Rene Sagastume, director of the department, said agents found the jumpsuit and harness Wednesday.

Sagastume said the parachute itself probably was carried off by poor farmers.

Residents said the man they saw counting money carried a backpack and a small suitcase, and wiped sweat off his face with tissues. Agents said they found used tissue in the area.

The hijacker took over an Eastern plane on a flight from Allentown, Pa. He collected $303,000 from the airline in Washington, D.C., where he allowed the passengers to disembark, and then flew on to New Orleans where a mechanical failure resulted in a change of airplanes. He parachuted from the Boeing 727 over Honduras on Saturday, 21 hours after the hijacking began.

Parochial Bills On Senate Floor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Appropriations advancing the causes of aid to non public schools and a state lottery to benefit public schools went to the Illinois Senate floor Thursday.

The senate appropriations committee voted 11-5 in favor of a $30 million package for non-public schools. It has been redrafted, sponsors said, to meet technical objections raised by the state Supreme Court to a similar package that had become law.

In a bill given unanimous recommendation, the desirability of adopting a state lottery and using revenue for public common schools would be studied by a bipartisan House-Senate commission. It would be funded with $15,000 to shape a report by Dec. 15.

Attacking the lottery question directly, a bill is pending in the House. Appropriations Committee for $1.5 million to start a lottery that a sponsor estimates would raise $100 million a year for the state treasury.

Cass Board Says Deputies Raise 'Not Justified'

BEARDSTOWN — Robert Patterson, chairman of the new Cass county board which met for the first time this week, said the board's first problem was "like deciding which side of a double blitted ax they would rather be struck with."

He referred to the decision the board made in approving the disputed pay increase for deputies in the office of County Clerk H. Gus Carls, who had named his office alone since May 2.

Patterson reportedly indicated that the board did not feel the pay increase was justified and did not believe the old county board should be reversed in its opposition to the pay increase. However, the approval came in order to speed work on tax bills and, if possible, to avert delays in getting tax monies to needy taxing bodies.

"The walkout in the clerk's office is little short of blackmail," said Patterson. "Granting these increases which exceed budgetary limitations is against principles of every board member, but no matter how bitter the pill, the general welfare and continuing operation of Cass county must be the first and foremost consideration of the board," he continued.

The comment was made in connection with a 5.5 per cent increase in salaries for three deputies in the clerk's office. The state's attorney had put a stop order on wage increases and the deputies walked out at a time when important work on tax matters was "waiting to be done."

Seale need not be given credit for the year and a half he served after the mistrial since that time was in connection with charges in Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

The appeals court ruled that the contempt sentences imposed on the two lawyers and seven defendants at the end of the trial violated the Supreme Court ruling in Mayberry vs. Pennsylvania, which held that a judge should disqualify himself from contempt proceedings if he is "so prejudiced or so vulnerable and human qualities of a judge's temperament."

The court cited Kunster's remarks to the judge which included such comments as, "I know in my heart this is not a fair trial... what you have just said is the most outrageous statement I ever heard from a bench."

defense line. Five North Vietnamese tanks were in the northern end of the town, field reports said.

Fighting continued on the northeastern perimeter. Field reports said one block of the perimeter captured by the North Vietnamese was retaken by government troops.

Some fighting erupted to the west and northwest of Saigon in Hau Nghia and Tay Ninh provinces.

In the far north, there was more fighting around Firebase Birmingham near the old capital of Hue. Spokesmen said 32 enemy were killed while government forces lost one man killed and two wounded.

Intense air strikes continued Thursday over North Vietnam, but specific targets were not disclosed immediately by the command in Saigon.

The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio claimed more attacks were carried out Thursday in the Hanoi-Haiphong area and that three American planes were shot down.

U.S. headquarters announced a record 10 enemy MIGs were knocked down Wednesday over North Vietnam. First accounts said seven of the North Vietnamese interceptors were downed.

Headquarters listed three American planes lost in Wednesday's raids. Two crewmen aboard a Navy F4 Phantom parachuted and were rescued unharmed, but the four men aboard two Air Force planes were listed as missing.

Naval gunfire also slammed into North Vietnamese targets from what official communiques called "the most formidable cruiser-destroyer striking group assembled in the Western Pacific since World War II."

The Pentagon reported in Washington that four Soviet vessels—two tankers and two freighters—and a Hong Kong-based British vessel pulled out of Haiphong port before the mines were activated. That leaves 31 foreign merchant vessels there—12 Russian, five Communist Chinese, three Hong Kong-based British craft, three Polish, two Cuban, one East German and five under the flag of Somalia.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, announced in Washington that activation of the mine fields occurred as scheduled.

North Vietnam, in a Radio Hanoi broadcast, declared it will "sweep out the U.S. mines... and will certainly smash all steps of brutal war escalation."

Casualty reports released Thursday by the U.S. Command showed American battle-field deaths in the fifth week of the enemy offensive soared to the highest level in seven months. The South Vietnamese reported a reduction in government casualties and a drop of more than 50 per cent in the number of enemy troops killed.

U.S. headquarters said 19 Americans were killed, five were reported missing and 29 were wounded last week. This compared with 2 Americans killed, 19 missing, and 29 wounded a week earlier.

The casualty report for the week ending last Saturday did not include a helicopter crash, in which 32 Americans died Wednesday.

South Vietnamese government casualties last week were listed as 603 killed, 2,028 wounded and 737 missing in action. A week earlier, 768 government troops were reported killed and 2,794 wounded.

Enemy casualties last week were 2,349 killed, headquarters said, compared with 5,031 reported killed in the previous week.

Seale need not be given credit for the year and a half he served after the mistrial since that time was in connection with charges in Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

California Seeks Quake 'Early Warning' System

By JAMES BAPIS
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Efforts to find a reliable "early warning" system to forecast earthquakes are no longer being pushed harder than ever than in California whose 20 million residents live within the world's most hazardous earthquake zone.

Geologists call this zone the "ring of fire" and no section of the state is outside it or free from the danger.

On the U.S. Commerce Department's seismic risk map, more than half the state — including nearly all the coastline — falls into the area of major tremors. The remainder is in the moderate zone.

The "ring of fire" is a volcanic belt that coincides roughly with this horseshoe-shaped zone in which 80 per cent of the world's earthquakes occur. The zone follows the western, northern and eastern shores of the Pacific Ocean.

"This isn't news to state officials. But they are emphasizing it in a new campaign to prepare the public and themselves for future jolts such as the one that rocked the San Fernando Valley near Los Angeles on the morning of Feb. 9, 1971, taking 64 lives and causing more than $500 million damage.

Worst To Come
"We know the worst is yet to come; that a true disaster will be experienced when a great earthquake strikes the Los Angeles metropolitan area," says C. Martin Duke, a UCLA engineering professor who specializes in earthquake engineering studies.

He said it is "distressingly easy to visualize 10,000 deaths." On the first anniversary of the San Fernando tremor, Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed a 32-member Governor's Earthquake Council to bring all state forces concerned with earthquake preparedness and research under a single roof.

"We've had enough tragedy here in our state to know what it is like when the alarm bell rings and to know what it is like to look back and say how things could have been different," Reagan said.

He directed the group to coordinate preparedness and research programs, recommend and evaluate legislation, propose action to reduce casualties and property damage and work toward development of an earthquake warning system.

James G. Stearns, soft-spoken director of the state Department of Conservation, was named to head the group, which includes experts from all levels of government, the universities and private industry.

Information Clearing House
He sees the major task as that of coordinating the various efforts being funneled into earthquake research.

"There has been no central clearing house for information on all these activities," Stearns said. "There has been no objective body in a position to recommend overall priority for allocation of effort."

"One of our greatest life saving tools of all is full awareness by the people of what they are up against," he added. "We need to inform them to respond to a disaster without panic and to assist each other."

On Feb. 11, the state Office of Emergency Services cooperated with city, county, state and federal agencies in conducting an earthquake simulation exercise in Los Angeles.

The exercise—to be followed by others of its kind—involved a mock major quake on the San Andreas Fault and was designed to train personnel at all levels of government to carry out their emergency assignments.

"It was in effect a war games type operation," Stearns said. "This preplanning, in terms of saving lives, is the greatest thing in the world."

Academia's Role
The university community also is playing a major role. Seven institutions are engaged in various types of seismological research, including the University of California, Berkeley, and California Institute of Technology.

They are looking into such things as the history of major shocks in California and attempting to predict ground motions for a given area.

Cal Tech and the University of California, San Diego, for example, are studying conditions in northwestern Mexico because of the belief by many geologists that California's problems are "intimately connected" with earthquake probabilities in the Gulf of California.

The day will come when you finally get serious about your lawn.

That's the day to get a snapper V21 or V18. Snapper is the solution to some real lawn problems. The bag holds three times as much grass and it's between the handles where it can't get knocked off. Snapper also vacuums your lawn as it mows. In every way it is the logical mower for you. Seriously.

Orr And Bruins Ice Stanley Cup

NEW YORK (AP) — Sensational Bobby Orr scored one goal and assisted in another as the Boston Bruins rode the shutout goal tending of Gerry Cheevers to a 3-0 victory over New York Thursday night, clinching their second Stanley Cup in the last three seasons.

Orr, who led all scorers in the National Hockey League playoffs with 24 points, concluded on a power-play goal midway through the first period and the Bruins protected the lead until Wayne Cashman tapped Orr's slapshot into the net for the first of his two third-period goals.

The opening 10 minutes of the game were played much like a heavyweight championship fight with the two teams feeling each other out cautiously.

When Walt Tkaczuk drew a penalty at 10:25, the Bruins sent out their power-play unit. New York's Bruce McGregor narrowly missed clearing the puck over the Ranger blue line as Orr stopped him.

The Boston defenseman stepped McGregor and let fly with a shot that zipped past Ranger goalie Gilles Villemure.

The Bruins protected the 1-0 lead tenaciously through the scoreless second period and even went 48 seconds with two men in the penalty box.

The Rangers buzzed furiously around Cheever but were unable to finish off their plays.

As the third period began, New York had two excellent opportunities but Cheevers gloved Pete Stankowski's slapshot and moments later Vic Hadfield's rebound attempt rolled harmlessly past the corner of the Boston net.

Ranger defenseman Dale Rolfe went off for holding at 3:20 and with only 10 seconds left in his penalty, Orr and the Bruins struck again.

Phil Esposito won a faceoff from Tkaczuk in the Ranger end, getting the puck to Orr. Bobby took two steps in and fired with Cashman tipping it into the net.

As the clock ticked off the final minutes, the Rangers tried desperately to beat Cheevers but instead it was the Bruins who scored.

Cashman jammed a short shot past Villemure with only 1:40 to play, sealing the Bruins' fate.

As the final buzzer sounded Orr, and the rest of the Bruins mobbed Cheevers and the Stanley Cup was wheeled to center ice.

Orr, whose overtime goal gave the Bruins their last Cup in 1970, was voted the outstanding performer by the playoffs by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association. The honor carries with it the Conn Smythe Trophy and a $1,500 cash award from the league.

The Cup triumph was worth $15,000 to each Bruin while the losing Rangers earned $7,500 apiece.

Giants Erupt Early To Topple Montreal By 6-2

MONTREAL (AP) — The San Francisco Giants battered Steve Renko and Tom Walker for six runs on 10 hits in the first three innings Thursday night en route to a 6-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

The Giants opened the scoring in the first inning when four Montreal fielders let Dave Kingman's high pop fly drop into short left field for a double, scoring Chris Speier who had led off with a single.

Three straight Giant hits began a second-inning rally. Alan Gallagher started off with his first of three singles and went to second when Garry Maddox beat out a hit. Dave Rader followed with a double, scoring Gallagher.

Gallagher began a two-run rally in the third with a one-out single off Walker. Maddox followed with another single and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Rader singled to score Gallagher and winning pitcher Ron Bryant, 1-2, doubled home Maddox.

The Expos nicked Bryant for 11 hits but scored only in the third on Clyde Mashore's sacrifice fly and in the sixth on Ron Fairly's pinch single.

Willie Mays Back In New York Suit

NEW YORK: Willie Mays puts his arm around his new manager, Yogi Berra, after announcement of his trade to the New York Mets by the San Francisco Giants Thursday. Mets gave up minor league pitcher Charlie Williams and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Giant Great Is Traded To The Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, a living legend with the Giants for two decades, returned to New York Thursday as a member of the Mets and immediately disclaimed any role as a prima donna of special status.

"The Mets have a good team—they're not going to keep me out there just because I'm Willie Mays," the 41-year-old superstar said after being dealt to the Mets by San Francisco for a promising minor league pitcher and an undisclosed sum of cash.

"I'm not going to be something on display. I have to play ball. If used in the right way, I think I can do a good job for the Mets," he added.

The announcement of the trade, on again and off again during the last week, was made following a poorly kept secret meeting among M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the Mets; Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants; Bob Scheffing, Mets' general manager, and Yogi Berra, the Mets' manager.

Mays flew down from Montreal Wednesday night. Scheffing and Berra were given a hurry-up summons shortly before noon after Grant, Stoneham and Mays had talked for approximately 1 1/2 hours.

Scheffing was permitted to make the announcement before the grinding newscast cameras and the flashing bulbs of the still photographers.

He revealed that to acquire the services of the colorful home-run hitting outfielder the Mets gave up Charlie Williams, a 24-year-old Met rookie right-handed pitcher last year now with the Tidewater International League farm team, and a hunk of cash. Estimates of the money involved ranged from $100,000 to $200,000.

The Mets assume Mays' $165,000 annual salary, part of a two-year contract which expires at the end of the current season.

After the formal midtown announcement, Mays and his new employers, Grant and Scheffing, were whisked out to Shea Stadium for additional exposure before the newest Met was to take a plane for San Francisco to clean up his personal affairs.

"I'll be back Saturday," Mays said. "I should be in uniform No. 24, which he first wore as a New York Giant in 1951 when he made his big league debut. The Giants moved to the West Coast in 1958.

Stoneham, who owns 68 percent of the Giants and who brought the Alabama-born Mays from Minneapolis in 1951, appeared on the verge of tears as he told of the parting.

"It wasn't that the Giants needed the money," he insisted. "More than anything else we were concerned about Willie's future. He has given us so much down through the years. We wanted to be sure that he had a secure future."

"Don Grant and Mrs. Payson Joan Payson, owner of the Mets, are in a better position to see to that than we are. They have to answer to only six or seven stockholders. We have to answer to 600."

Grant said that in the conferences with Stoneham and Mays he had assured both that Mays would never have a worry about the future.

"I hope he stays with us the rest of his life," Grant said. "I can assure you he will be in good financial shape when he retires."

The Mets' chairman said that he expected Mays to be taken care of just as Yogi was taken care of from player, to coach, to an even higher office in the organization.

"Does that mean he may some day become manager just as Yogi did?" someone asked.

Grant stalled momentarily and then said: "I don't say he can become manager or cannot. As far as I'm concerned, Yogi can be our manager the rest of his life."

Mays was the idol of Polo Grounds fans when he was a member of the New York Giants. His cap-falling basket catches in the outfield became a trademark as did his speed on the bases and his power at the plate.

In his career, he has hit 446 home runs, just 68 back of Babe Ruth's all-time 714. Playing spasmodically this season, he has appeared in 19 games, with five of his 49 at bats as a pinch-hitter, and has a batting average of .184. He has not hit a homer.

Willie twice was selected the Most Valuable Player in the national league—in 1954 with New York and in 1955 after the Giants had moved to San Francisco. Last year, his 21st season in the big leagues, he hit 18 home runs.

Mays was asked by one interviewer Thursday if he felt that coming back to New York would give him a psychological lift.

"I don't know about that," Willie said. "I'm 41. When you're 41, there's not much psychology can do for you. Your muscles just don't respond."

"I haven't played much this year. I have to play myself back into shape. It's all up to Yogi how much I play. I can still swing a bat. I can still run."

"I'm happy as I can be," said Berra. "Willie will be a big help to us in two positions—the outfield and first base."

Stoneham, who owns 68 percent of the Giants and who brought the Alabama-born Mays from Minneapolis in 1951, appeared on the verge of tears as he told of the parting.

"It wasn't that the Giants needed the money," he insisted. "More than anything else we were concerned about Willie's future. He has given us so much down through the years. We wanted to be sure that he had a secure future."

Sox' Yaz Lost For One Month

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski will not have to undergo surgery on his injured right knee, but the Boston Red Sox star will probably be lost to the team for at least a month.

Red Sox team physician Dr. Thomas Tierney said X-rays of the knee taken at Santa Maria Hospital here Thursday morning showed a small tear in a knee ligament.

The ligament will heal in two or three weeks, Dr. Tierney said, and Yastrzemski, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1967, is expected to be out of the lineup at least a month.

Yastrzemski suffered the injury Tuesday night in the Red Sox victory over the California Angels in Anaheim.

Ninth Inning Rally Wins For Cards 4-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of Houston pitcher Jerry Reuss' two-run throwing error and Marty Martinez's tie-breaking single to rally for three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning and beat the Astros 4-3 Thursday.

Reuss, traded by the Cards to the Astros two months ago, was breezing along with a 3-1 lead and a five-hitter when Ted Simmons and Donn Clendenon opened the ninth with singles.

Ted Sizemore then beat out a bunt and, when Reuss threw the ball past first, Simmons and Clendenon scored and Sizemore raced to third.

Wade Blasingame took over for Reuss but Martinez greeted the Houston reliever with his game-winning single.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the second on a pair of walks and singles by Johnny Edwards and rookie Bob Fenwick. The Astros made it 2-0 in the seventh as Roger Metzger singled, stole second and came home on Bob Watson's single.

Baseball: A Talking Game

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — Baseball is a talking game. Players talk around the batting cage. Fans talk all through the slow-moving tableau of a game. Managers and writers talk before and after the action.

Frank Lucchesi, the effervescent manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, is one of the better talkers. Like his players, he's wearing the new body-fitting double knits which are spreading through baseball.

"First time I put one on," he says, "I felt like a ballet dancer."

Lucchesi was the only major league manager who stayed right at his Florida training base during the strike, never going north. He worked with the Phils' minor league teams and felt right at home because he spent 19 years in the minors as a manager.

"It was great," he says. "The confidence of these kids — this one 19-year-old, he comes up to me and says, 'If you need me later, Skip, here's my hotel phone number.'"

Lucchesi called home to Foster City, Calif., a suburb of San Francisco, to find out how his family was getting along. "I'm worried about Brian," said his wife Cathy. "He played a Little League game today and made three errors. He's feeling real low. Maybe you can say something that'll help him."

Frank got on the phone with his eight-year-old son. "Hey, Brian, you know what happened to us today?"

"What, Dad?"

"Bowa made three errors at shortstop."

"That right, Dad?"

Brian felt better. Larry Bowa, the Phils shortstop, is one of his heroes — also the premier fielding shortstop in the National League last year. If he, too, could make three errors in one game, well....

Cathy Lucchesi got back on the phone.

"What'd you say to him, Frank? He just ran outside, whistling."

x—(Larry Bowa has scarcely made three errors in his life. His .987 fielding average last year was a major league record for shortstops.)

Tito Fuentes, the second baseman of the San Francisco Giants, talks rat-a-tat-tat, whether it's in his native Cuban Spanish or in colorfully accented English. He was telling how a kid from Castroland becomes a big league baseball player.

"We got no money, but my father, he buy me a glove every year. Cost six dollars. I play on team, seven players have glove. No pitcher, no rightfielder. In winter, the baseball players come home from the States and give us old balls. We took covers off them and tape them to make them last longer."

"When I 15, the Giants try to sign me. They offer me $30. No money. But when I

IVC Track Meet At Carrollton Next Tuesday

CARROLLTON — The annual Illinois Valley Conference track meet is scheduled to be held at Carrollton next Tuesday, May 16, with preliminaries starting at 3:30 and the finals at 7:15.

Calhoun, Greenfield, North Greene and Winchester are entered along with the host club. Meet records are:

100 yard dash: 10.1 McKenna, Pittsfield 1938; Clendenny, Calhoun 1971; 220 yard dash: 22.0 Ansell, Pleasant Hill 1927; 440 yard dash: 52.6 Watt, Winchester 1962; 880 yard run: 2:01.0 Vinyard, North Greene 1971; low hurdles: 20.7 Cox, Winchester 1970; high hurdles: 15.2 Ford, White Hall 1954; high jump: 6'0" Meyer, Southwestern 1964; long jump: 21'7" Brant, Pittsfield, 1933.

Pole vault: 12'2 1/4" Roach, Carrollton 1970; discus: 160'5" Webster, Pleasant Hill 1962; mile run: 4:44.5 Hubbs, Winchester 1971; shot put: 50'8" Luckner, Southwestern 1965; two-mile run: 10:27.6 Hubbs, Winchester 1970; freshman relay: 47.2 Carrollton (McLaughlin, Wildhagen, Schnellen, M. Grant); 1970; 880 relay: 1:34.6 Winchester (McLaughlin, Peak, Cox, Lair) 1969; mile relay: 3:36.0 North Greene (Rogers, Sykes, Andras, Vinyard) 1971.

18, I sign. I got $2,000. That's money."

"I still got family in Cuba, but I don't go back. That's politics. I ball player."

Bill Rigney, the manager of the Minnesota Twins, is always good for a word, on almost any subject. The fact that almost all the $100,000 ball players, including his own Harmon Killebrew, are in their middle or late 30s, intrigues him.

"I'll tell you what it is. They're not fighting trains. They got planes to get them to the next city right now. Everything's a little better for them. The places they live in, the food, the arrangements.

Salaries get to a point where it's more important for them to take care of themselves. Used to be, when a guy was 35, all he thought about was hanging on. Now a Hank Aaron carries the club."

"One other thing, when you got a Willie Mays getting old, you also got a Bobby Bonds around to help him. That takes the pressure off."

Deron Johnson of the Phillies is a 10-year veteran and regarded as a great man to have on the club for morale. He doesn't make waves, will help the team any way he's asked. So late last season, when the Phillies brought up young slugger Greg Luzinski from the minors, Manager Lucchesi went to Johnson and said he'd like to give the kid some work. Luzinski played first base. That was Johnson's position, too.

"Great idea, Skip," agreed Johnson. He thought a second. "But put him in left field."

Husky Luzinski, called The Bull, started this season in left field. Johnson's still on first.

The baseball strike has had a profound effect on Sam McDowell of the Giants. He's changed brands of beer. No longer will ask for "Bud," the brand of Gussie Busch, the owner of the Cardinals who spoke out adamantly against the players.

The Orioles and Braves each picked up their first wins of the year in Elks Little League action Thursday evening.

The Orioles slipped past the Red Sox 7-5 thanks to a three-run rally in the top of the sixth. The Orioles were outthit 5-2 but took advantage of seven fielding miscues. Mark Bruins slugged two home runs for the losers.

The Braves rode the 16-strike-out pitching of Rick Meado to a 10-5 count over the Cards, scoring six times in the second inning.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Qualifications take place this Saturday and Sunday here at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to determine the starting line-up for the May 27th 500-mile race. The fastest average speed of a four-lap total turned in by a driver during those runs on Saturday will give that driver the number one starting position, regardless of anybody going faster on Sunday or next weekend when qualifications are terminated.

Speculation is running high as to what speed will be necessary to grab the "pole" position. Estimates run from 188 mph all the way to 194 mph.

It's a certainty that a new record will be established. Peter Revson qualified for the pole position last year at 178.969 mph. Early this week seven cars were running in the 185-188 mph bracket. Gary Bettenhausen cracked 190 mph.

Even though there are 81 automobiles entered in this year's Indianapolis 500-mile race, only a few can be counted as contenders to grab the number one starting position. The drivers who will be the most closely watched by the 250,000 people who find their way into the speedway facilities are Joe Leonard, Al Unser, Bobby Unser, Peter Revson, Mark Donohue, Gary Bettenhausen, A. J. Foyt, and Jim Malloy.

Grabbing the spotlight here at Indy this year are the cars themselves. They're the reason for the tremendous increase in the speeds. McLaren, Parnelli, Eagles. All with super slip-stream styling and the all-important wing.

The wing is situated above the engine, which is located behind the driver. Its principle is the reverse of an airplane wing. On an airplane, the wing pulls the plane up. On the Indianapolis race cars, the wing is turned upside down and the wing pushes the race car down to give better road-holding.

Drivers are running the 2.5-mile track at 95 per cent full throttle. What used to be two long-straight and two short-sweeping left-hand turns, is now two long-strights connected by two long left-hand turns.

Thirty-year old Bettenhausen said he believes his car, a Roger Penske prepared McLaren, is capable of running 195 mph here. The son of driving great, Tony Bettenhausen, also feels safer at the 190 mph speeds he's turning than when he qualified in the 170's last year. The reason for this goes back to the wing again and the stability that it gives the cars.

One of the busiest men here has been A. J. Foyt. He's a three-time winner of the Indy 500. Many say if he wins the race for a fourth time he will retire from racing the Indy-type cars.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Texas Rangers scored two runs before a man was retired in the first inning and held on behind the combined four hit pitching of Bill Gogolewski and three relievers to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1 Thursday night.

The setback prevented the Orioles from grabbing a share of the American League east lead with idle Cleveland while dropping them to third behind Detroit, also idle.

Elliott Maddox opened the game with a double against losing pitcher Jim Palmer, 2-3, and the Rangers scored when Palmer walked the next three batters.

Frank Howard then hit a grounder to shortstop that was bobbled by Bobby Grich for an error, allowing the second run to score.

Palmer pitched out of further trouble in the inning and limited Texas to four hits through eight innings.

Gogolewski, 2-1, limited Baltimore to a second-inning single by Don Baylor until Paul Blair cracked his second home run of the season with two out in the eighth inning.

The Orioles loaded the bases after two out in the eighth inning, but Casey Cox got Brooks Robinson to fly out, ending the threat.

The Rangers scored their third run in the ninth off Doyle Alexander, when Joe Lovitto raced home from second on a force play.

Revson Reaches 190 MPH Club

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Peter Revson, the star of last year's pre-race speed war, joined the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 190 mile per hour club Thursday, bringing the membership to three.

Revson wheeled a Team McLaren car around the 2.5-mile oval at an unofficial 191.123 m.p.h. to become the second-fastest driver in a week of incredible practice.

Bobby Unser and Gary Bettenhausen earlier had cracked the magic barrier, Unser by driving Dan Gurney's Eagle at 194.721 m.p.h., and Bettenhausen taking Roger Penske's McLaren on a 191.017 voyage.

At least 24 drivers already had clocked practice laps higher than Revson's 1971 pole-winning, four-lap speed of 178.696 m.p.h., and 19 had exceeded the 190 mark. The latest to top 190 was veteran Lloyd Ruby, who hit 183.038 in Thursday's practice.

Foyt has been working the last 72 days building a brand new car.

"It's actually a 1973 car, but we decided to build it now," said Foyt. "I didn't plan to build a race car this year but started 72 days ago, working days and nights. It's fantastic, unheard of, to build one so late."

Foyt said his 1,350-pound car, a Coyote III, should attain 240 to 250 mph on the straightaway. "I want to try to break my own record," said Foyt. "All the other guys are getting younger — I'm getting older. Foyt is 37."

A. J. said that a 190 mph run will be necessary to win the pole. "I hope to run that fast or faster," he said. "A 200 mph average is just around the corner, and I'd like to be the first man to do it."

It will be some sort of miracle if any driver hits 200 this weekend. In fact, 195 seems to be out of reach. This year they'll have to settle for a "slow" run of 190 mph.

4 Texas Hurlers Limit Baltimore To Four Hits 3-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Texas Rangers scored two runs before a man was retired in the first inning and held on behind the combined four hit pitching of Bill Gogolewski and three relievers to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1 Thursday night.

The setback prevented the Orioles from grabbing a share of the American League east lead with idle Cleveland while dropping them to third behind Detroit, also idle.

Elliott Maddox opened the game with a double against losing pitcher Jim Palmer, 2-3, and the Rangers scored when Palmer walked the next three batters.

Frank Howard then hit a grounder to shortstop that was bobbled by Bobby Grich for an error, allowing the second run to score.

Palmer pitched out of further trouble in the inning and limited Texas to four hits through eight innings.

Gogolewski, 2-1, limited Baltimore to a second-inning single by Don Baylor until Paul Blair cracked his second home run of the season with two out in the eighth inning.

The Orioles loaded the bases after two out in the eighth inning, but Casey Cox got Brooks Robinson to fly out, ending the threat.

The Rangers scored their third run in the ninth off Doyle Alexander, when Joe Lovitto raced home from second on a force play.

Final scores: Baltimore 3, Texas 1. 200 000 001-3 5 1

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is no telling how a woman is going to act. Ever. Tommy Helms knows that the same as any other man.

Still, it jolted him a little. No man likes to see a woman cry. The fact that it was his wife, Rita, shedding the tears made it all the worse.

Tommy Helms did what all good husbands do. He just stood there. He tried to think of something comforting to say. Something sympathetic. He could only think of one thing, the obvious thing.

"What are you crying about?" he asked his wife.

"We're going to an air-conditioned stadium. We'll never get rained out. Heck, look at it this way, we've got as good a chance to win over there as in Cincinnati."

"I don't know how to take it," pretty Rita Helms sobbed through the tears. "I feel so funny."

"It could've been worse," her husband said. "I could've been traded to an expansion club."

That last statement shows Tommy Helms was a little shook up himself late last November when he got the news Cincinnati had sent him to Houston in an eight-player deal.

Houston is an expansion club. Helms forgot all about that trying to reassure his wife, but it was a perfectly understandable oversight because the Astros have been in the National League 10 years now, they've built themselves up to the point where they are stronger than some of the league's charter members and usually when people speak of National League expansion clubs they mean Montreal and San Diego, the two latest ones.

Helms, who came to Houston along with Lee May and Jimmy Stewart, the heads-up, always hustling switch-hitting utility man, not the actor, wasn't handing his wife a lot of malted milk when he told her the Astros have a chance to win. They have a good chance. Much better than the Reds off their pitching alone.

"With the pitching this club has, it must be rated contender," says Helms. "We've also got some power in the lineup. It's a club you're not gonna pitch around. And I think the world of our shortstop. He's a good player."

Roger Metzger is an excellent shortstop and together with Helms at second, made the Astros as strong up the middle as any club in the league. The deal with Cincinnati reshaped the entire Houston club.

The Reds also restyled their ball club when they made the deal. They took on Joe Morgan, Denis Menke, Cesar Geronimo and Jack Billingham along with

SOYBEANS ADVANCE, GRAINS IRREGULAR

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures advanced 1½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday but grains were mostly irregular.

Trade was mixed but the pace rather slow. Despite the advance in soybeans, traders appeared cautious and the public involvement was light.

Soybeans were irregular on the opening but improved under short covering and new buying. It appeared that the trade was taking an optimistic view to the absence, so far, of any comment from Russia that the upcoming conference might be postponed because of the new turn in events in Vietnam.

Soybean oil and meal trade was "considerably lighter" than in beans. Small gains of 3 and 4 points were posted in several oil options. Meal was about 20 points higher with mainly nearby options active.

The feeling of optimism also appeared to have flowed into the grain pits. Prices of wheat showed some strength early in the session, then the May option was sold against deferred purchases. Some export business also was in the offing.

Corn and oats trade was very slow. Some selling in deferred options by commercial interests was construed as hedging. Nearby options were bought.

After about an hour, soybeans were ½ to 1½ cents a bushel higher, May 3.48; wheat was ½ lower to ¼ higher, May 1.63½; corn was ¼ lower to ½ higher, May 1.23½ and oats were ½ to ¾ higher, May 70½ cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — A little mimeographed booklet that reveals long suppressed facts that some consider scandalous and others just shocking is becoming one of the most talked about publications of the year. It's "A Shopper's Guide to Life Insurance." And its publisher is the Pennsylvania Insurance Department.

Interest in the guide is growing spontaneously from ordinary consumers who for the first time want to see insurers rated on the relative price of their policies, with all the confusion wiped away.

They learn, for example, that prices vary as much as 170 percent. They learn that a 20-year-old male might pay $2.24 or $6.10 per thousand of straight life coverage, depending upon the company.

"We know that as the public gets the facts it will shop more intelligently for insurance," says Dr. Herbert Denenberg, the commissioner, a 42-year-old former professor, a whirlwind who feels he has the people on his side and is making American government work.

Many insurers have been angered by the report, which can be used anywhere in the country.

"If the companies are promoting junk and garbage, we'll tell the people," Denenberg says, adding, "This will force the insurance companies to lower premiums and improve service."

Are they promoting junk? "Not the whole industry, but it is a common technique to design policies to fool the public," he replies. "The character of the insurance business is to deliberately design policies that can't be compared."

Typically, he maintains, a prospective purchaser is told to first consult an agent. But that agent, Denenberg says, is usually committed to selling the policies of his employer only.

The result, he continues, is an effort by both company and agent to camouflage prices, thus denying the purchaser the opportunity for comparison shopping.

What does the industry think of this? "The reaction is predictable," says Denenberg. "Those who look good think the report is brilliant. Others think it isn't so brilliant."

Said the spokesman for a company that ranked near the middle in the listings:

"We concede he is brilliant, that he generally knows what he is talking about. But he has so many ideas and he is so smart that sometimes he goes off half-cocked in trying to do things he believes should be done."

UMW Picking Of Officials Invalidated

PITTSBURGH — A federal judge has invalidated a United Mine Workers practice of appointing, rather than electing, officials on the district level—a move that could weaken President W.A. "Tony" Boyle's grip on the union.

The district officers make up the union's policy-making International Executive Board and Boyle's ability to appoint all but three of them gave him almost unchallenged control of that body.

The decision voiding the practice was handed down Wednesday by Judge Barron P. McCune of U.S. District Court on a suit filed 10 months ago by the dissident Miners for Democracy.

It deals only with the union's District 2, headquartered in Ebensburg, and orders that an election be held in that district. However, the ruling sets a pattern for 19 other districts where officers are appointed. Elections are usual practice in only three districts.

A similar case is pending in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., where the Labor Department is seeking autonomy for seven other districts.

That suit was filed more than seven years ago.

The fight for autonomy was a major campaign issue in the union's 1969 election, in which Boyle easily defeated the late Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski.

Yablonski was slain three weeks after the balloting. Yablonski repeatedly demanded that Boyle's control be broken down by allowing each district to elect its own officers.

INSTALL CASS MAYOR AS VFW COMMANDER

BEARDSTOWN — Robert Summey, mayor of Beardstown, has been installed as the new commander of the Guthrie-Pierce Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

Other officers installed at the Post headquarters included: Maurice Lehmkuhl, junior vice commander, John Weimer, adjutant, Sam Dittmer, quartermaster, G. A. Gardner, chaplain, Bill King, trustees, Homer Cline, Lyle Lamb and Donald Durham.

A. J. Roth was inducted as a new member and Richard Harmon was reinstated.

Plans were made for the annual decoration of the graves of veterans in local cemeteries for Memorial Day; it also has been announced that assistance will be given the Auxiliary for Buddy Poppy sales, May 26-27.

Baccalaureate services for the Beardstown High School graduating class of 1972 will be held May 21 at the Beardstown High School gymnasium, starting at 8 p.m.

The speaker will be the Rev. Father Martin O'Hara of St. Alexis Catholic church here. Commencement ceremonies have been scheduled for Friday, May 26 at the high school athletic field.

Attacks Compulsory Religious Instruction
MANILA (UPI)—A constitutional convention delegate has opposed a move to make religious instruction compulsory in Philippine public schools, as proposed by the convention's committee on education.

Delegate Bren Z. Guiao, who represents the province of Pampanga, says such a step might foment religious discord instead of instilling spiritual values among the young.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market plodded doggedly ahead Thursday while the volume of trading dwindled, as it had Wednesday.

With some help from the glamour department, advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange topped the losers 911 to 498.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 934.83, a gain of 3.76 for the day. It had closed at 937.84 Monday, 925.12 in Tuesday's sharp drop, and 931.07 Wednesday.

Big Board turnover amounted to 12.9 million shares. The Wednesday figure was 13.87 million. In contrast, Tuesday's was 19.91 million.

If Vietnam war news played any part in the market's performance, it was not apparent. When the Soviet Union demanded that U.S. forces end their steps "to block the coast of North Vietnam," there was no tangible reaction. Yet market observers cautioned that investors remained apprehensive.

One domestic development caused part of Thursday's advances, as Rogers C.B. Morton, Interior Department secretary, announced the approval of the proposed Trans-Alaska pipeline.

Traders had got wind of the approaching announcement at midday, and prices picked up in affected issues.

Alaska Interstate became the Big Board's most-active issue, up 1½ to 44½ on 315,700 shares, and Atlantic Richfield gained 1½ to 64½ on 155,800 shares, ranking fourth most active.

The same thing happened on the American Stock Exchange. Banister Continental rose 2½ to 25½ on 288,900 shares to become the Amex volume leader, and Alaska Airlines placed fourth, up 1½ to 8½ on 53,900 shares.

The NYSE index of more than 1,300 common stocks finished at 58.80, up .22.

The Associated Press 60-stock average, closing at 328.8, up 1.2.

On the American Stock Exchange the price-change index was ahead .12 to 27.32.

In Over-the-Counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index gained 1.18 to 127.95.

There were 106 blocks of 10,000 shares or more on the Big Board, compared with a revised total of 115 for Wednesday. The largest was 83,900 shares of International Telephone & Telegraph at 53. The stock closed at 53½, unchanged.

Most of the steels and electronics issues were up, but other categories were mixed.

On the Big Board there were 72 new lows but only 20 new highs, as 1,732 issues were traded.

On the American Stock Exchange, turnover totaled 3.98 million shares, compared with 3.66 million Wednesday. There were 564 advances and 344 losers among the 1,176 issues that were bought and sold.

Treasury May Net $600 Million On Ike Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Treasury stands to make nearly $600 million in profits by selling collectors versions of Eisenhower silver dollars at $3 to $10.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally brought up the subject Wednesday at a session of the Senate Appropriations Committee and said:

"The profit we're making on sales of the Eisenhower dollar is just unconscionable, that's the truth."

Connally didn't have the exact figures on the profits but the U.S. mint did.

A spokesman said the Treasury profit last year on sales of $10 "proof" dollars was exactly $40,411,689.14 with the profit for both types of coins averaging $3.89.

Multiplying by the 150 million dollars—each containing 40 percent silver—that the Mint is authorized by Congress to make and sell, the total potential profit is $597.5 million.

And a mint spokesman said the profit margin probably will rise as initial production costs go down.

"We're selling all of them we can make," he said. "We're limited only by our production capacity."

"As a matter of fact, our profits should be more than $3.89 on each coin," the spokesman said. "I figure that profit margin will either stand firm or go up. It won't go down."

The profit from the 3,858,626 proof coins sold at $10 each and the 6,542,354 uncirculated coins sold at $3 each went into the Treasury's general fund.

In addition to that, the mint shipped 186 million of the ordinary cupra-nickel Eisenhower dollars to the banks.

The cost of the metal in each of those one-dollar coins is just six cents.

Village Would Like World To Think It Has Disappeared

By JEANNINE YOMANS
Associated Press Writer
BOLINAS, Calif. (AP) — This windswept village on the Bolinas Lagoon would like the rest of the world to think it has disappeared. Road signs telling motorists where Bolinas is hiding and how to get there have been removed.

Dozens of signs have been chopped down during the night. County officials erect new ones and these too are eliminated. "Eliminated is a kind word," said Henry W. Miller, "What they do is take a chain saw and hack them off." He complained at least 20 signs costing $25-$50 each have disappeared in the last half-year.

"I guess they don't want anybody to know where it is," Miller said. "The people in this town want to feel it's a town, not a tourist trap," declared Dan Deevy Jr., manager of the only grocery store. "Taking down the signs is one solution. And it works."

On weekends and summer days, the main street of Bolinas is cramped with camera-clicking tourists riding bumper-to-bumper amid weatherbeaten pastel cottages. Homemade signs point out "Smiley's," the saloon; "Scowley's," a restaurant; and "Snarley's," a delicatessen open Sundays only.

Bolinas is nestled in heavily wooded coastal foothills about 20 miles north of San Francisco's Golden Gate and just south of the bay, where Sir Francis Drake crashed his ship Golden Hind in 1579 after he missed the Golden Gate in heavy fog.

Residents include retired folks and young families who like the quiet and the nearby sea.

In short, Bolinas is isolated, but isolated in picturesque territory just perfect for a Sunday drive.

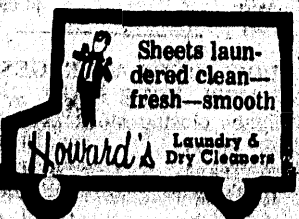

"We close on Sundays because of the tourists," says Deevy. "They dirty the place up and they only buy potato chips and little things."

At Smiley's Saloon, manager Mary Jenkins says patrons and most residents believe fellow residents are tearing down the signs. She and Deevy say this method of fighting crowds works pretty well. "People come in and say they've been looking for the town for hours," says Miss Jenkins. She said some motorists go all the way to Point Reyes, about 20 miles north, before they realize they missed the turnoff.

Small Arkansas Town

By DONALD C. BROWN Jr.
MARIANNA, Ark. (UPI)—
"For sale" signs dot the windows of a row of empty businesses off the town square.
Just around the corner a lot is littered with the debris from a fire.

Eleven months of racial strife have left their marks on Marianna.

There are other signs of the struggle between blacks and whites in this eastern Arkansas community of about 6,000.

The classrooms in the public schools are more than half empty, the result of a black boycott that began in January.
Another black boycott has badly damaged the town's economy.

There have been firebomb-ings and bullets, accusations and counter accusations.

Struggle for Control

The struggle in Marianna is a fight for control. The town and surrounding county are about 60 per cent black but whites hold by far the most influential positions in the local hierarchy.

Marianna is the largest town in Lee County, whose green fields and rich black land belie the poverty conditions that exist there.

About 20,000 people live in Lee County, almost 15,000 of them on incomes below federal poverty level standards.

In Marianna's pleasant town square stands a statue of Confederate war hero Robert E. Lee. Behind the general are the white neighborhoods of Marianna and the supporters of men such as state Rep. J.B.
Smith, a short bespectacled man with an ultraconservative voting record.

Neal's Territory
The statue faces south where a few miles away the shacks and dirt roads fade into the dusty cotton fields of the Mississippi Delta. That's the home of the black community which supports leaders such as

Ollie Neal Jr., 31, a tall lean man who grew up on a small farm just outside Marianna, before taking part in the civil rights movement in the early 1960s.

Neal is the problem in Marianna as far as most whites are concerned.

"Ollie Neal is a real good leader, a real intelligent person," Smith said. "It's too bad he hasn't used his influence for good. He has certainly tried to destroy our community."

Neal is the director of the Lee County Cooperative Clinic, a federally funded facility staffed partly by Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) workers. The clinic provides free health care to the poor in Lee County.

Whites also blame the clinic for part of the racial problems in Marianna, and resent "outsiders" who give it their support. Folk singer Joan Baez visited the clinic and some of the County's black poor in February, and she also has given benefit performances for the clinic in Memphis and elsewhere.

"We see a need in Lee County for taking care of the poor and the sick," Smith, who operates a sporting goods store, said. "But I am not in favor of having a clinic that's more concerned with taking over the county politically than with providing health care."

Neal and his followers see the problems in Marianna from a different angle.

"I think that what we have over here is the have-nots who make up 74 per cent of the population and 60 per cent of them are black," Neal said.
"The community's leaders are white and they feel truly threatened because black people are encouraged to run this operation."

"We've been called an organization that is bent on stirring up the poor and the blacks to take over the county.
I wouldn't even deny that charge because if the poor and the black are the largest majority they ought to be the persons who have a large say in running the county,"

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Medication Halts Sexual Drive

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you tell me what you think about a man with high blood pressure that stays at 200-120? He takes tablets daily for his blood pressure, plus tablets for water, and takes 15 aspirin daily (on his own) for pain from arthritis, plus vitamin pills that he gets here and there. I have asked him to change doctors, because it seems that this medicine takes away his sexual ability. He wants to, but he isn't able. I find this very nerve-racking and it has been going on for three years since our marriage.

Dear Reader—This is a very difficult problem. Many medicines that are used to treat high blood pressure have this side effect. If your husband's pressure is at the level that you state, despite all of his medications, he obviously needs the medicine he is getting. Without the medicine he might have very serious difficulty. Put plainly, his medicine is life-saving for him. So, it is not a question of sex or medicine, but a question of medicine or death. It is sometimes difficult for people to realize that illnesses sometimes mean they cannot do all the things they would like to do.

Changing doctors won't help, but I would advise you to have your husband discuss this problem with his doctor to see if there is anything he could do to help relieve the side effects. But I would not be optimistic that this would be the case.

I know that it is difficult for you, but if you really love your husband, you will be able to adapt to this problem. After all, you know, marriage is for "in sickness and in health."

Dear Dr. Lamb—I noticed your column with the request of the lady whose husband was losing his hair, and who was quite perturbed about it and your answer was very good but it didn't go "far" enough, I think.

For a number of years my wife and I fought dandruff, itching and falling hair from my head with shampoos that anyone and everyone had tried, even prescriptions, but to no avail. I finally got my wife to quit all soaps and detergents, shampoos and just use plain hot water and I mean hot—just so it wasn't uncomfortably hot. After several weeks we began to see an improvement. After months of that method we have no more head problems except those inside, so I thought you might be interested in knowing our remedy for falling hair. Wish I had tried it a number of years ago. I might still have a good head of hair though at 33 I still have plenty.

Dear Reader—Thank you for your remedy. Congratulations on saving your hair and also for having your heart in the right place. Perhaps other readers will suggest what successful remedies they have used to prevent falling hair.

Salt Lake rising
SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—In 1890, the first year the U.S. Geological survey measured it, the surface of the Great Salt Lake was 4,201 feet above sea level.

It has had its ups and downs since then, and in 1971, America's dead sea—reached 4,196 feet. Six inches more this year and water will cover the top of the road to Antelope Island, closing the barren state park to everybody who does not have a boat.

Everyone loves a circus.

An integral part of Americana, it is renewed and revitalized each spring through the country. It is a colorful, spicing and memorable show to everyone from infants to oldsters who can see, hear, smell and taste its delights. And, thanks to photography, there are millions more who can sit back, look and recall the thrills, relive the excitement, remember the sounds and be dazzled by the color through pictures taken.

The circus is one of the few fields of professional theater that permits photo fans to shoot pictures during the show. Cameras, which are verboten in most theatrical performances, are welcome in circus seats.

And almost anywhere in the arena, some specialty act can be photographed to advantage. In the balcony, photographers are closer to the aerialists and high-wire specialists. In the middle tiers, there are platform and poles with jugglers, jumpers and acrobats. And in the lower seats, you're close to the clowns, animal acts and ring activities.

Circus lighting, too, is a vital boon to photographers. It is bright enough to permit shooting by existing light with today's fast films and lenses, and dramatic enough to make spectacular pictures in black-and-white and in color. G.A.F. has an ASA 500 film and Kodak's High Speed Ektachrome can be "pushed" to ASA 320. In black-and-white, Tri-X film (ASA 400) is the reliable standard. It can also be "pushed" to ASA 800 or 1600 in fine-grain developers like UFG and Acufine.

The month of May saw lots of circus activity in New York City. Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey had its spectacle at Madison Square Garden. At the Kodak Gallery and Information Center, one block from Times Square, the entire interior was devoted to the circus theme. More than 250 circus photos were on display along with movies, slide shows, special memorabilia and animated figures including an aerialist team swinging on a trapeze.

And at the Neikrug Galleries, a special exhibit by Charles R. Reynolds Jr. and Jill Freedman looked beyond the spangles and charisms of the "big top" to present "CIRCUS: The Real People."

I've known Reynolds a great many years and have always been aware of his fascination with the circus and its people. For the past 10 years he has photographed circuses—from the largest to the smallest—throughout this country and in East Germany, France, England, Spain and other countries.

The present exhibit spotlights some 40 of his favorite circus photos but a larger selection is slated for publication next year in a book entitled "Lion, Woman and the Lord Knows What."

Jill Freedman's approach was different. She lived with a travelling tent circus for two months as it played one-night stands from town to town. "It's one of the few remaining tent circuses," she explains, "and they are disappearing. I focused on the people and animals who make up this colorful illusion rather than the illusion itself."

All the exhibit prints on display are in black-and-white rather than color. "It's a cop-out to shoot in color," Reynolds says, "because it's just too easy. The best approach, I feel, is to abstract or symbolize a significant facet of circus activity or life and it shows up best in stark black-and-white."

Charlie Reynolds is chairman of the photography department at the School of Visual Arts and was editor, for seven years, of "Infinity," official publication of the American Society of Magazine Photographers.

"Fascination with the circus has been long-enduring and will always remain," Reynolds says. "I see the circus as a mirror of mankind—its hopes, visions, desires and defeats. It is comedy and tragedy and fear and triumph over great odds."

"It is man confronting danger and winning... and sometimes losing. The major elements which make for dramatic photography are there at every circus show—waiting to be captured. That's why I'll continue to follow circuses and continue to take pictures."

Senators Applaud Antiwar Speech

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois senate got an invitation Thursday to go out on the capitol lawn and "show your concern over the killing" in Indochina.

Speaking from the Senate rostrum, Richard Chaffee, 20, a Western Illinois University student, said he is "nonviolent ... very nonviolent."

"But you have to understand the struggle going on inside these people — inside all of us to find viable ways of expressing our concern," he said.

After his talk, Chaffee, one of several hundred antiwar demonstrators who gathered on the Statehouse lawn Wednesday and spent the night, received a 30-second ovation from the senators and students in the gallery.

A resolution saying that the "State of Illinois deplors the induction of citizens of Illinois into the armed forces of the United States until all U.S. military forces and support have been withdrawn from Indochina" was introduced by Sen. Thomas Lyons, D-Chicago.

Chaffee told the senators that antiwar demonstrators on some campuses who turned to violence "resorted to what they resorted to because they weren't listened to ... because what's happening now didn't happen."

As soon as the Senate adjourned, he said, the members should come down to the statehouse lawn for a "humane discussion."

"We want to see that you're concerned," he said. "The names of those of you who do come will be remembered, believe me. And so will those of you who don't."

"Your response will determine to a large extent our future choice of action," he added.

Lyons said that his resolution was first given to him on the lawn of the capitol by students Wednesday night. Such measures have been introduced in the General Assembly on a number of occasions but never have got out of committee.

Local Council Of Churches To Meet May 16

The Greater Jacksonville Council of Churches will hold its semi-annual meeting Tuesday, May 16, at 6:30 p.m. at Ebenezer United Methodist church, North Sandusky Road. The host church will serve dinner at $2.00 per plate. Reservations for the dinner should be made before Monday noon, May 15, by calling 245-8802 during the day or 243-2563 after 7 p.m.

The Youth Singers of the UCFY will present a program of songs. The film, "The Red Kite," will be shown, with discussion following in small groups on the meanings of life.

Along with other business, the following will be elected: Life and Work committee chairman, Christian Education committee chairman, Ecumenical Relations committee chairman, Publicity committee chairman and the UCFY advisor.

State To Seek 'Gravy' From Charity Races

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—Race tracks may become less of a nemesis for Illinois government and could help fill the state coffers under a bill passed by the Senate.

The bill, adopted and sent to the House on a 43-3 vote Wednesday would allow the state to compete for charity dates at Illinois horse and harness race tracks.

In past years, Chicago newspapers and other organizations have been granted dates by track owners who hand over all net proceeds for charitable use.

Sen. Robert Coulson, R-Waukegan, sponsor of the bill, said last year charity dates granted to the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Today, the Chicago Sun-Times, the Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Daily Defender netted about $3.2 million for charities sponsored by the news papers.

Illinois Worthy Cause "I have no objections to sending poor children to summer camp, but I think the state of Illinois is also a worthy cause," Coulson said. "It looks to me like an easy way for the state to have $5 million."

The bill earmarks all proceeds from state-sponsored races for the common school fund. But Coulson said he would agree to placing the funds in any other state program.

"I think these newspapers should raise their charity funds like everybody else and should not have exclusive rights to racing dates especially when the state can use all the money it can get," he said.

He said depending on what dates and at which tracks the state was granted races by the Illinois Racing Board, profits from the races could filter some $5 million into the state treasury.

Other Senate Moves In other action, the Senate approved and sent to the House a $125,000 appropriation to install an electronic voting system in the Senate chambers.

Sen. Jack T. Knuefer, R-Elmhurst, sponsor of the bill which passed 31-17, said the Senate could save up to 20 days a year by cutting out the sometimes lengthy voice roll call system of voting.

He said a relatively brief two-minute roll call on some 2,500 bills voted on by the Senate last year consumed 80 hours which, based on a four-hour average daily session, wasted 20 legislative days. The House already has an electronic voting system.

Mrs. Cruzan was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

City police investigated another accident at the intersection of East Morton and South Clay avenues about 6:20 p.m.

Officers said a car driven by Abner J. Phares, 22, of Clinton, was northbound on Clay Ave. and hit an eastbound auto operated by Glenn Davis, 17, of 802 E. College Ave.

Davis was ticketed for running a red light; Phares was cited for having no drivers license.

Bill Prohibiting Term Paper Sale Passed In Senate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate adopted Thursday, 31-0, a bill to permit university presidents to obtain court orders against the sale of term papers.

Sen. Stanley B. Weaver, R-Urbana, whose district includes the University of Illinois, sponsored the bill which goes to the House. Weaver said before the vote he struck the criminal penalty, and substituted the injunctive power. The penalty would have been $1,000 or imprisonment for a year, or both.

The bill defines an offense as "sale of academic papers for submission as original work."

The offense occurs when a person prepares for sale or sells an academic paper if he knows the buyer will submit it as his own original work.

In another education-related matter, the Senate defeated, 22-23, a bill to increase minimum salary levels of full-time teachers from $800 to $1,100 a year.

Present teacher minimums are $6,000 for teachers with less than a bachelor's degree; $6,800 for those with 120 semester hours or more and a bachelor's degree; and $7,300 for those with 150 semester hours or more and a master's degree.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Gene Johns, D-Marion, would have kept the same qualification categories but would have raised the salary levels respectively to $7,200, $8,000 and $8,800.

Opposing senator criticized the cost, which Johns said would be about $11 million, and argued neither local taxpayers would permit tax increases in a referendum, nor could the state obtain added revenue.

The Senate approved a bill to permit 16 area vocational-education districts to borrow money from their educational building funds to construct area vocational projects. The borrowed money would be used to pay principal and interest on bonds.

Two Indicted For Arenzville Bank Robbery

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A federal grand jury handed down indictments Thursday in connection with bank robberies in Peoria and Arenzville and an alleged union fund embezzlement in Quincy.

Emil W. Beck of Jacksonville and Larry N. Wease of Roodhouse were charged with the April 3 robbery of the First National Bank of Arenzville. Officials said more than $3,500 was taken.

Beck and Wease were arrested in Jacksonville a short time after the robbery. All but a small amount of the money stolen in the holdup was recovered at that time.

The grand jury charged Richard Johnson of Quincy and Ralph Frye of Payson with embezzlement of more than $12,000 from the Laborers International Union of North America, Local 919, in Quincy. The two men were officials of the union.

An inmate in the Peoria County Jail, Donald G. McPherson, was charged with the March 31 robbery of the Commercial National Bank in Peoria in which $10,700 was stolen.

Two Injured In Scott County Car Accident

Two persons were injured in a one-car accident on the Alseymanchester blacktop, about 3 miles west of Illinois 267, around 4:45 p.m. Thursday.

John Miehler, 18, of R.R. 2 Roodhouse, and Floyd Hannaford, 17, of Roodhouse, were treated at White Hall Hospital and released.

Investigating state troopers said an eastbound car driven by Miehler ran off the right side of the road, skidded out of control and hit a fence.

Miehler was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions.
